New day for public construction may benefit senior center project

By Neil Fater

If Andover builds a senior center next year, it might be able to do so without some of the state rules town officials have blamed for the problems with previous building projects.

The state's Special Commission on Public Construction Reform is recommending legislation it says will significantly reform public construction management. Among the recommended changes are fewer restrictions for projects estimated to cost between $25,000 and $100,000, and allowing communities to pursue an alternate construction method for projects estimated to cost more than $5 million – such as the proposed senior center.

Town officials such as Joe Piantedosi, plant and facilities director, and Mark Johnson, School Building Committee chairman for the Wood Hill Middle and High Plain Elementary schools project, appeared before the board to plead for changes. Such officials have said there were delays on construction projects such as the Andover High School and public safety center because state regulations essentially forced towns to hire the lowest bidder. "If you disqualified someone, you immediately delayed the project because they would sue you. When it comes to public safety, when it comes to schools, time is of the essence," said Barry Finegold, Andover state representative.

Under the alternative construction method that would be available to projects over $5 million, a town could hire a general contractor of its own choosing. This contractor could work with the architect on the plans for the facility. Then, the town could set its own standards for what it wants in its subcontractors, such as those firms doing the electrical or plumbing work. Only those subcontractors who meet the community's standards would be allowed to bid on the project. "You can be as tough as you want, or you can be as lenient as you want," said Finegold.

"You could add a whole slew of (standards) in there: How long they've

George T. Burridge was a prisoner of war on a freighter bound for Japan during World War II when an American submarine sunk his ship. The Japanese had not marked the ship as carrying POWs, and an American torpedo sent Burridge and hundreds of other Americans to their deaths.

Burridge was one of 60 Andover residents killed in action during World War II. Now, he and those other 59 residents have been memorialized on a Andover monument, which was unveiled for the first time on Memorial Day.

"They served from Alaska to the South Pacific. At least three were killed in kamikaze attacks that we know of. They were killed in training accidents. It was all across the spectrum," said John Doherty, town veterans agent, whose family funded the Andover World War II Memorial. "There's no theater of war that we didn't lose somebody in. We were, unfortunately, very well represented."

During the Memorial Day ceremony on Monday, Doherty revealed a bit of information about how most of the 60 residents named on the memorial had died.

William R. Muller had been killed in Normandy. Frank Colizzi – the uncle of the man who designed the monument – had died on Mount Suribachi on Iwo

Private school put on hold

No land deal in Middleton

By Ben Hellman

Plans to start a $10,000-per-year private online middle school have been put on hold by Andover resident Robert Coffill.

Negotiations to use a facility in Middleton as the site for the first Advanced Schools fell through last week, said Coffill. Earlier in the week, Coffill had presented architectural images of the anticipated buildings to interested parties at open houses held at Merrimack College. Coffill said the school may continue to seek the optimum location, with or without him at the helm. Coffill has been pursuing the effort with a silent partner.

"The school will continue to look for another site."

ROBERT COFFILL, PRESIDENT AND CEO OF ADVANCED SCHOOLS, A PROPOSED PRIVATE ONLINE MIDDLE SCHOOL

Advanced Schools was to provide an online curriculum and full middle-school education aligned to state and national standards. The plan was to offer space for 80 students from grades 5 to 8, in classes no larger than 20 students. A physical education, fitness and nutrition regime was to be provided by Hoop Specialists, another company.

Enrollment to the school was to begin this week and Advanced Schools would have begun accepting tuition, said Marycatherine Cunningham, director of corporate/business development for Advanced Schools. Future open houses were also being scheduled for Andover and surrounding towns, she said. But Coffill, who made presentations at the open houses on Tuesday and Wednesday, said the school is definitely on hold for now. "The school will continue to look for another site," he said. Coffill said he might or might not be involved with the project, which was his brainchild.

Coffill released details about where the school would have been located this week. The buildings being built at 343 North Main St., Middleton are part of an industrial park off Route 114 and Sharpners Pond Road. They are owned by Joseph DiGrazia, who runs a lamination business on the site.

DiGrazia said this week he was approached by Coffill at one time, but no official deal was ever made for the use of the buildings and he had been speaking to other potential renters. He added no money ever changed hands.

Coffill said that Hoops Specialists – the firm Advance Schools would have partnered with – was negotiating the deal.

Tight budget has schools worried about new students

By Meir Rinde

As projected school enrollment for the fall continues to inch up, school officials are hoping a sudden surge of students doesn't require any budget-busting hiring this summer.

"We don't have the kind of give in this budget that we've had in the past," said Superintendent Claudia Bach. "Right now we're very, very, very tight."

The schools will have a total of 6,014 students in the fall, an 88-student increase from this year, according to new projections released last week.

In the elementary schools, some hot spots are fifth grade at Bancroft Elementary School, where the average class will have 25 students; third grade at the nearly-over-capacity High Plain Elementary, with one class of 25 and three of 24; and fourth grade at South Elementary, with two classes of 25 and two of 24.

The School Committee allows class sizes for upper elementary and middle school grades in the range of 21 to 29 students. The limit could be pushed at West Middle School, where most sixth-grade classes are already projected at 26 students, since additional enrollments over the summer are not unusual.

"The likelihood is not that this is going to get any better, but is going to get worse," said Business Administrator Bernard Tuttle, who has been formulating the projections for several years.

At last week's School Committee meeting, committee members said a worst-case scenario would be a repeat of the kind of enrollment spike that hit High Plain Elementary last summer. By the start of the school year, 39 more students had enrolled in various grades than projected, threatening to create fourth-grade classes with as many at 30 students. The

Keeping military bases open

By Ben Hellman

Every five years the US military looks at its bases in the US and decides which ones are necessary. Andover resident Suzanne Daniels is a defense-industry representative on the Massachusetts Defense Technology Initiative, which is trying to keep open Massachusetts military bases.

Two Massachusetts bases, Hanscom Air Force Base in Bedford and the Army Soldier Systems Center in Natick have been identified by the military as bases that could close in 2005.

The Massachusetts Defense Technology Initiative is a collection of parties from state government, industry and education that benefit from having the bases in Massachusetts. It is co-chaired by Gov. Mitt Romney and Sen. Edward Kennedy.

Daniels said the process of having an effect on military decision-making is tricky because the military has no direct connection to the Massachusetts Defense Technology Initiative and makes decisions based on its own needs. Daniels said MDTI's objective is to provide information to Romney and Kennedy they can use to influence the military's criteria for keeping a base open.

Daniels said the current level of high tech industries and universities here in Massachusetts works well for the military and the local economy.

Daniels is the business development director for BAE Systems IR Imaging Systems in Lexington. Her job is to get new technology out of the lab and onto the market.

IR Imaging Systems produces infrared imaging technology for use in rifle scopes, cameras and other devices for military use, homeland security border control and even firefighting. Its facility in Lexington is 95-percent academic, said Daniels. BAE Systems is the third-largest defense contractor in the US. Daniels said Raytheon is her major competitor. She said BAE Systems IR Imaging Systems also gives back to the military. "It's our technologies that are keeping those boys, men and women alive over there (in Iraq) and coming home," said Daniels.

Free Christian Church

Congregation replaces memorial

Honoring 185 WWII vets

By Andrea Gregory

From the end of World War II until three years ago, a wooden plaque with 185 names of World War II veterans hung on the wall in the sanctuary of the Free Christian Church on Elm Street. Those 185 names, and the plaque, have not been forgotten.

Although the deteriorating plaque came down when the church expanded, the church will unveil a new bronze plaque on Sunday, June 6 at 10:15 a.m. The event will take place between services.

"It seems to be an appropriate time. Sunday is the 60th anniversary of D-Day," said the Rev. Jack Daniel. "As soon as we took the plaque down in 2001, we knew it was necessary to replace it. It had hung there for over 50 years, but it was time to replace it with a more durable plaque."

The plaque will be unveiled in the rotunda and hung in the church later in the week.

"It seems to be an appropriate time. Sunday is the 60th anniversary of D-Day."

THE REV. JACK DANIEL

The plan is to have the plaque resting on an aisle and covered with a cloth. Private First Class Tom Low, a 92-year-old World War II veteran with two battle stars, Tom Low, a 92-year-old World War II veteran, will do the honors of lifting the cloth to unveil the new plaque to the congregation.

"He is one of our older World War II veterans," said Veterans' Service Agent John Doherty. "I've known him for a while."

According to Doherty, Low was an Anti Aircraft Artillery gunner. His job was to shoot down German planes protecting US troops. Doherty said the job is extremely dangerous since the weapons used to take down the planes were stationary. He said it would not have been hard for the Germans to figure out where they were being attacked from and fire back.

Doherty also said infantry training,which Low had to go through, is the toughest training. He Jima. Allan C. Edmund's ship was destroyed by a kamikaze.

Information was not available on each person. But as Doherty named each of the 60 men, 60 balloons were released individually, one balloon for each resident killed.

Among those helping to release the balloons was Sam Medolo, whose brother Paul had been killed during World War II while test-flying problematic planes to see if they could be used in the war. Paul Medolo left for the service on Sam's birthday, but the day Sam Medolo remembers is the day his brother died.

"He got killed March 2, 1945. He was going out on a flight in one of the rickety old B-24s in Charleston, S.C.," he said. "We thought he was going to go through the whole (war), but, like I said, he was flying a piece of junk."

Like Sam Medolo, many but not all of the people who gathered at the Memorial Day event in Andover had served in the war or had a close relative who had served in World War II. The 300 chairs set up for the event were quickly filled and hundreds more residents stood to witness the event. "This is one of the largest crowds we've ever had in this town," said Doherty.

"It's Memorial Day. I wanted to see what the monument looked like," said Joseph Giaimo, of Countryside Way. "It's a nice fitting tribute to the folks who died.

Giaimo's father served in World War II, his grandfather fought in World War I, and his new son-in-law – married last Saturday – is now a member of the Navy, he said.

"I passed by last week and (the memorial) was covered," said Mildred Giaimo, Joseph's wife. "It's very impressive."

Throughout the day – and long after the ceremony was finished – residents of all ages enjoying their day off stopped to read and consider the residents whose names are engraved on the new monument.

While those who lived through the war remember the telegrams, the defeats, the sacrifices and the shock of Pearl Harbor, the younger generation does not, said Doherty, during the ceremony.

"In addition to a memorial, this is also a history lesson," he said, toward the end of the Memorial Day ceremony.

"Four hundred men from Andover were wounded in World War II. They proudly wear their Purple Hearts, but they don't ask for anything," said Doherty. "I salute (them)."

Also saluting the veterans for the sixth year in a row was trumpeter Jeff Arleque, who has played Taps at each Memorial Day ceremony since 1999. Arleque taught himself to play the bugle in the sixth grade by listening to music tapes.

Arleque says he is able to calm his nerves before playing each year by thinking of the trials veterans have endured. He said he also feeds off the positive energy and encouragement he receives from the members of American Legion Post 8, who this year donated the bench that sits in front of the memorial.

Memorial Day has taken on different meaning for Arleque through the years, as he has advanced from involvement with his college ROTC program to becoming a member of the National Guard.

"I think of my father and my grandfather who are both veterans," said Arleque. "My father is 100-percent disabled and my grandfather is a World War II veteran. A lot of my friends are overseas now. A lot of people I trained with and a lot of my friends are in the Middle East."

Safety center nears finish

By Meir Rinde

Yellow safety tape still blocks entry into the Fire Department's half of the new Public Safety Center on Main Street, and workers upstairs are still ripping out the wrong-colored carpet – for the second time – and replacing it with the carpet specified in the building plans.

But by now, Fire Chief Charles H. Murnane is used to brushing off the countless glitches in the oft-delayed project "like little flies," he said, slapping an imaginary bug on his arm. His ambulances and trucks and firefighters are slated to finally move back into the building in July, so he can cope with few more bumps in the road, he said.

"We're in no hurry to get in," said Murnane, who once compared the project to a root canal. "We had the luxury of watching them put every block in. We're just making sure it's done right."

Mello Construction started the project in September 2000 and originally intended to finish the Police Department section in late 2001 and the rest in 2002. But within the first few months a range of problems cropped up – unsigned contracts, an underground oil tank, a bad winter, too few workers, faulty steel work – and the completion date was repeatedly deferred.

On an informal tour of the building Tuesday, Murnane pointed to more small problems that will need to be fixed, such as missing light switches in several rooms, walls painted the wrong color, and an unexpectedly noisy motor for pumping exhaust fumes out of the building's high-ceilinged apparatus bay, where trucks will be parked.

At the same time, he said he was proud of the building and expected residents will be pleased when they have a look at the interior. An open house will probably take place in early October, he said.

The red-brick structure is twice as large as the old joint safety center, which was at the same location at 32 North Main St. The new building has a larger apparatus bay than the old building, with five parking spots instead of four, a training room that could be used for selectmen meetings, and extensive wiring for phones, internet and radio communications.

Murnane said the building's kitchen, the tiered, 76-seat training room, and other features will allow the town to host state officials, firefighters from other towns, or people holed up at the center during an emergency.

A major problem with the old joint safety building was an inadequate floor for the apparatus bay, which posed a danger of collapsing onto detectives and called it "the meat grinder of basic training." Low was 32 when he was drafted, making him older than the average person drafted, said Doherty.

"(At age) 32 going through Army basic training is no day at the beach," said Doherty.

Before being called to war, Low was a mill worker. Doherty said he left having an Andover address and continues to have one today.

All 185 people listed on the plaque were members of the Free Christian Church at the time they went off to war. Daniel said the majority of them were Andover residents, since the church served mostly Andover at the time. Nine of the soldiers were killed in combat.

"The church certainly did its share of sending people off to war," said Daniel. "I knew many of the names on the plaque. It really is a who's who of Andover."

Daniel said the church deliberately avoided holding the unveiling on Memorial Day weekend so it would not have to compete with other ceremonies and events.He said 30 of the people listed on the plaque are still alive and he is hoping they or their family members will be able to attend. Those who do will be honored with a certificate, he said. "I am very glad we are able to do it. It seems time," said Daniel.

"It's certainly timely, Sunday being the anniversary of D-Day," said Doherty, who will speak at the unveiling.

Worker falls 20 feet

A worker who fell 20 to 30 feet from scaffolding on Hidden Road last week was released from Lawrence General Hospital on Sunday. David Vargas, of Lynn, an employee of Bay State Roofers of North Reading, was working on a Hidden Road home when he fell. He was treated at the scene by Andover Fire Department emergency medical technicians and taken to the hospital for further treatment. Vargas said some of the scaffolding fell down on top of him, said Andover Police Sgt. Harry Collins.

Ellen Murphy Meehan, a Lawrence General Hospital spokesperson, said Vargas was released on Sunday.

A representative of Bay State Roofers said Vargas was well, but had not returned to work yet.

Collins said the Occupational Health and Safety Administration was notified of the accident and is investigating.

New intentions for Andover movie

Andover resident's movie, Serial Intentions, being distributed

By Andrea Gregory

What if the Shawsheen Luncheonette served lunch to cops with dirty secrets? What if Palmers had dancing? What if prostitutes were regularly turning up dead in a nearby town, and Andover resident and filmmaker Mark Grant was on the case? Chances are you would be watching Serial Intentions.

Mark Grant

Grant, a Tewksbury Street resident, is the brains behind the mystery-thriller flick that should soon be released in the United States. A two-week-old deal with Showcase Entertainment has already landed his movie in the hands of worldwide outlets.

For locals who take in the film, the suburban setting should hit home. Several of the locations in the movie are spots Andover residents see daily and know well.

Grant also stars in the movie as Steve McCormack, a chauvinistic, arrogant detective who gets partnered with attractive, female, rookie detective Jamie Garrett, played be Christy Scott Cashman. Together they are hot on the trail of a serial murder investigation as prostitution, drugs and violent crimes invade a Massachusetts suburban town.

Erin Gray, former Silver Spoons sitcom actress, plays a reporter who is ready to blow open the story.

In 16 days, Grant whipped out a 90-page first draft of Serial Intentions. Four and a half years later, he has the finished 78-minute DVD.

"I can bang out a first draft very quickly, but the rewrite process is still happening on the set," he said, noting the Palmers scene took him 10 minutes to produce.

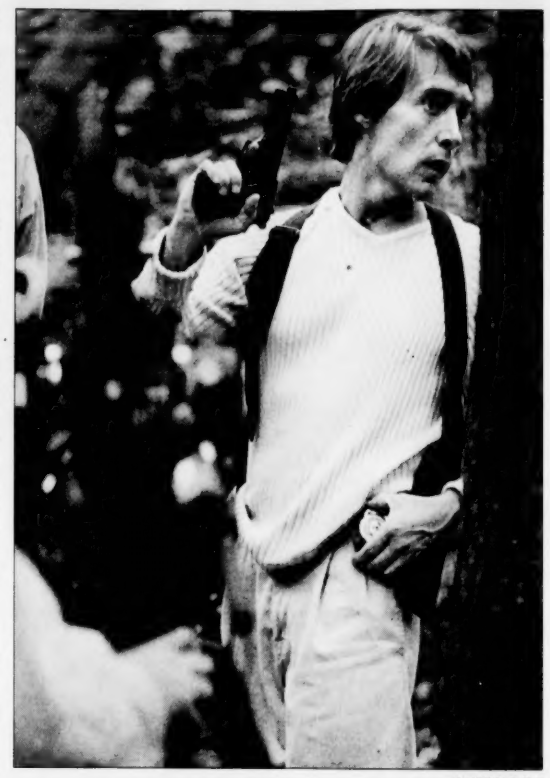

According to Grant, his movie stayed under a $115,000 budget. The film is not gory or bloody, but Grant said he wanted it to be a bit edgy.

"What if the people in power are the ones that are most evilly motivated? What if the guy running your town was a bad guy?" he said. "I wake up with these kind of morbid ideas. Sometimes these abstract thoughts come into your head and you let them roll."

Grant said movie-making is a part-time job for him. He works full time as an IT manager and marketing and sales manager. He also coaches middle-school lacrosse.

"For a first film, it was a home run. The film got a worldwide distribution deal," he said, adding that's not bad for something he pursues nights and weekends. "As far as I'm concerned, you are a want-to-be filmmaker unless you make a movie. The big thing was getting the film shot."

But Grant said the film only means he has put his foot in the door. "No, (I have) not made it, but I proved that I can do it, so I'll have the chance to play again," said Grant.

COURTESY PHOTO

Grant said Showcase Entertainment is already interested in working with him in the future. He said the company is interested is another movie he is getting ready to make, called Circles.

Andover residents can expect the chance to see Serial Intentions for themselves within a year, said Grant. It should become available in video stores or run on television, depending on who picks it up. Until then, anyone can get a sneak peek at the trailer and find out some more information about the movie at www.markgrant.com or at www.showcaseentertainment.com.

Venus transit: No one alive has seen this

By Ralph Pass

It is not often that people can witness a regular event that no one alive has ever seen. Such will be the case at sunrise on June 8. At that time Venus will be positioned between us and the sun. This will be the first time since 1882 that this has happened.

This transit of Venus across the sun will start before sunrise here in Andover. In fact, it will be more than half over at 5:08 a.m. when the sun rises for us. However, we will have more than two hours of viewing before Venus ends its transit at 7:25 a.m. Venus will appear as a black dot on the sun, almost like a bullet hole. Sunspots, while dark at the center, have a gray penumbra around them and so appear completely different. While it is easy to predict the Venus transit, it is impossible to predict if there will be any interesting sunspot activity that morning. To get an idea of the size of Venus as it would appear without a telescope, a person can draw a black dot exactly 2 millimeters in diameter on white paper. Then they can view the paper in bright sunlight at a distance of 23 feet. Most people cannot see the dot. A telescope is required to appreciate the view.

This will be the sixth transit of Venus that mankind has been able to observe. The first was in 1639, only 30 years after Galileo's first astronomical use of a telescope. This was predicted by the English mathematician Jeremiah Horrocks and was observed by him and by William Crabtree. As far as we know, these are the only two people who saw that transit. Since then there were transits in 1761, 1769, 1874, and 1882. The transits occur in pairs eight years apart with 122 years between pairs of transits. Our next opportunity will be on June 6, 2012 and then not again until 2134.

Transits of Venus were of interest because they provide chances to measure the distance of the Earth to the sun. This is the reason that Horrocks and Crabtree made their observations and why we know of their efforts. The advent of radar and the space age have provided us with more accurate methods of measuring the distance. However, we should not forget that until the transit of 1639 we did not have a reasonable estimate of the distance from the Earth to the sun.

People interested in seeing this phenomenon are cautioned that looking directly at the sun requires special equipment and it is strongly recommended that they contact a knowledgeable astronomer. Merrimack College and Phillips Academy each have observatories and there are numerous clubs in the area, including the North Shore Amateur Astronomy Club (Web site: www.nsaac.org) and the Amateur Telescope Makers of Boston (www.atmob.org).

Ralph Pass, of Lavender Hill Lane, is a consultant who also teaches astronomy at Merrimack College and is a member of the North Shore Amateur Astronomy Club.

Andover school officials are worried that their class sizes will climb between this year and next as more families move to Andover.

district ended up finding the money to hire an additional teacher late in the summer, creating an additional High Plain Elementary fourth-grade classroom and reducing classes to 22 or 23 students. But fifth-grade classes remained large there, with 26 or 27 students each. Those fifth-graders will contribute to the large sixth-grade class at West Middle School in the coming year.

The $48.6 million school budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 allows for some hiring, including one new teacher at High Plain, Sanborn, South and West elementary schools, and the equivalent of half a teaching position for the kindergarten program at Bancroft Elementary.

One of the new positions may be filled by a teacher who already works for the district, since Shawsheen School is expected to see decreases in its first-grade enrollment.

The high school will have 10 additional teachers, in addition to five hired earlier this year, as the district complies with a state order to bring all high school students up to the mandated 990 hours per year of instruction. But with 1,833 students expected – 80 more than this year – Principal Peter Anderson said the building is simply running out of space.

The problem will continue to grow as relatively small senior classes are replaced with larger classes of younger students, potentially pushing enrollment well over 1,900 students in the next year or two, committee members said. Crowding could be particularly critical when the demographic bulge of this fall's sixth-graders enters high school in a little more than three years.

In the past, Anderson has contemplated changes such as staggered class schedules or sharing rooms with West Middle School to avoid large classes that make learning difficult.

No agreement on site for new school

Coffill had been working out of an office in Brickstone Square and had used that address on business cards and other materials. Mary Dasilva, an administrator for Urban Commercial, the management firm for Brickstone Square, said the use of the space was unofficial and would be looked into by the firm's legal department. "We definitely have an issue with that," said Dasilva.

Coffill said this week that he had no connection to the business at Brickstone and had been using the space temporarily. Phone numbers he provided for the business were his home number, a toll-free number and Cunningham's home number.

Head of School Philip Chevalier and CEO Robert Coffill had hoped to launch the new school in September.

BACKGROUND ON CEO

The man who planned to open an online middle school has served as the head of school or superintendent in nine jobs over the past 14 years. He held no such position for no longer than 25 months. Andover resident Robert Coffill defends his resume, saying, "I am not an administrator who keeps his hands clean. My hands get dirty because I tackle issues."

Some officials in the communities Coffill has worked for refused to talk about Coffill because of legal agreements. Coffill says he negotiates these agreements with every district he leaves.

"I always get the personnel file," Coffill said. "I always get the legal agreement. I have an immaculate personnel file from every school and I have every one of them right next to me."

Some of the places he has served:

NH SAU 32, Lebanon, Grantham and Plainfield, N.H.:

Served assuperintendent from January 1991 until he resigned in February 1993. The Valley News newspaper of Lebanon reported Coffill allegedly charged more than $1,000 in personal expenses – expenses he later repaid – to the New Hampshire school district. Two of the alleged expenses were $292 in personal phone calls and a $399 airline ticket for his wife to accompany him to an educational conference in San Diego, Calif.

Coffill denies this charge and says he was told by school officials to spend the money. "I was told to use it and told to reimburse it. I reimbursed for the conference," he said.

More than 1,500 taxpapers signed a petition calling for him to resign or be fired, the newspaper reported.

He took the last 39 days of his tenure as owed sick and vacation time but said, "I helped them hire the interim (superintendent)."

Canterbury, Conn.:

Served as superintendent from February 1993 until August 1994 when the Canterbury Board of Education voted 3-2 not to renew his contract, according to the Valley News. The Valley News reported at the time a local taxpayer's group had begun questioning some expenditures Coffill made from a school checking account. Coffill said this week that the expenditures were made by the schools' business manager and she was fired.

Saco/Dayton, Maine:

Served as superintendent from Aug. 1994 to June 1996. Saco Mayor Mark Johnston gave Coffill high marks but confirmed reports he left the job after taking money slated for a new school bus and spending it on raises for central administrators. Coffill denies the incident, saying Johnston has him confused with the superintendent before him, but Johnston stands by his statement.

Calais, Maine:

Served as superintendent from July 2003 until February 2004. He resigned one week after police responded to an incident at the school between him and school psychologist Dale Hilton. Hilton claimed Coffill used his car to block Hilton from leaving, but police did not find enough evidence to support the claim and Coffill denies blocking him in.

As part of his resignation, Coffill received a $20,000 settlement.

Calais town attorney David Fletcher declined to comment, but read from a statement that said "it was in the interest of the union to pay a moderate settlement package to induce Mr. Coffill to release the board from its contractual obligations."

other police officers who worked in rooms below. The new building's floor is much more reliable, officials said.

"The biggest thing was that the ladder truck we bought was very large and very heavy," said James Landry Jr., vice president of the firefighters' union. "The original apparatus bay wasn't able to support it. That's why the truck went out to West Andover station. That'll be a huge difference, having that ladder truck centralized again."

For the last two years, firefighters usually based at the Main Street station have worked out of a building at Spring Grove Cemetery, where they displaced cemetery workers. The temporary site sufficed, but the guys are looking forward to moving back to their old home, Landry said.

"It's right in the heart and the center of the town," he said. "It'll just make our response time to those areas much quicker, and we'll be more visible to the center of town."

Proposed change would allow town to choose general contractor

■ PUBLIC CONSTRUCTION

been in business. What kind of manpower they have," said Piantedosi. "You could even add in that they must have satisfactory references from recent jobs, similar jobs."

Finegold was a member of the commission, which met from December 2003 until early May.

He said the Massachusetts House is expected to vote on the measures recommended by the state special commissions during the next two weeks, and the Senate is expected to address it this session as well.

"I think this new system of getting the contractor in early and prequalifying your subs will make a big difference," said Finegold. "Before, if you were the low bidder, it didn't matter if you did a bad job. Now, you don't even get to submit a bid unless you (prequalify)."

While local officials are hopeful the proposed legislation will improve public construction, they do harbor some doubts about whether the legislation will solve all of the problems they see with the current system.

"It's one of those 'the proof is in the pudding' things. Some of the initiatives seem, on the surface, that they will put us in a better situation," said Selectmen Chairman Brian Major. "Overall, I think it's going to be helpful. I'm just skeptical of whether it is going good be as helpful as they're portraying."

Finegold himself said he was disappointed the changes will not penalize architects and contractors who do not produce projects on schedule. "I think there should be an incredibly strict penalty for those who don't get the job done on time," he said.

The recommended reforms would require towns to hire project managers on all projects that cost more than $1.5 million, which could drive up the cost of projects. When Johnson, the chairman of Andover's school building committee, appeared before the commission, he said he did not believe a town should have to spend money on a clerk of the works or a project manager. if high-quality contractors are involved in public construction, he argued, why should towns need to pay for a project manager?

"If we're striving for the most cost-effective way to do it, I think we should have contractor we hire to do the project, do the project," he said.

But Piantedosi said he believes communities do need a professional overseeing such projects. Although the original project costs will be higher, Piantedosi said, "In the end, it's going to be cheaper because the job's going to get done better."

He suggested that the new legislation should allow town employees to fill the role of project manager to save communities money.

Opinion

Rightly, if belatedly, memorialized

IT TOOK PRIVATE DONATIONS – and nearly 60 years – but Andover residents who were killed in action during World War II have been honored with an appropriate, granite memorial in the Park.

Every resident of Andover continues to benefit from the battles fought by the hundreds of Andover residents who answered the call in World War II. Nearly everyone has a close family member who served in the war. Often, we don't know about the efforts that these veterans made to preserve freedom.

Take for instance, Mike Colizzi, the man who designed the memorial. When he submitted his design, he did not even know that his uncle, Frank Colizzi, was one of the 60 Andover residents who had been killed in action. He was told this by veterans agent John Doherty. "He was absolutely dumbfounded," said Doherty.

60 balloons, one for each resident killed in action during World War II, were released at Monday's Memorial Day ceremony in Andover.

That Mike Colizzi has never heard about his uncle, who as a 19-year-old Marine infantryman died on Mt. Suribachi on Iwo Jima is not surprising. Many veterans and their families downplay their service, rarely talking about their effort. But perhaps the new Andover World War II Memorial will help get others talking about the sacrifices, both of those who survived the war and the 60 residents who were killed in action.

Web question

Will upcoming Democratic National Convention affect you?

Last week's Townsman Web-site question was: The School Committee gave Superintendent Claudia Bach high marks for leadership and work ethic, but said she needs improvement on her communication skills and in making sure the district is following state laws. Does this reflect Bach's job performance?

34 people voted.

2, or 6 percent, said, "Yes, it is a large improvement over previous evaluations and was fairly done."

3, or 9 percent, said, "Yes, it is a fair and balanced evaluation, but it gives no clear indication of how the members weigh her faults against her strengths."

11, or 32 percent, said, "Yes, but how can a district keep a superintendent who is regularly faulted for communication skills and failed to keep Andover High School in compliance with state laws?"

1, or 3 percent, said, "No, the evaluation downplayed Bach's successes and strengths."

17, or 50 percent, said "No, the evaluation downplays Bach's shortcomings."

No one voted "Other."

This week's Townsman Web site question: An Andover travel agent said people are choosing to take vacations the week of the Democratic National Convention. What are your plans that week?

- I'm going to the convention.
- I'm taking the week off because getting to work will be difficult.
- This is a lame excuse to take the week off. People with jobs have to get to work regardless of traffic and detours.
- This is another reason I'm glad I don't work in Boston.
- Other.

Sewer work

Resident wants answers on traffic, safety

Editor, Townsman:

I could not agree more with John Mitchell Jr.'s letter of May 20 ("Poor execution, little warning demand explanations," page 9).

The Main Street area sewer project is a nightmare for anyone attempting to navigate the local roads. Closing larger areas than appears necessary, changing closures and accessible routes almost daily, failing to provide appropriate signs and directions to motorists and failing to provide advance notice of passable routes in local media outlets have all led to unnecessary delays and extraordinary levels of frustration.

I would go one step further than Mitchell, and state that the situation is downright unsafe, as response to any emergency in the area would surely be seriously compromised. Imagine attempting to evacuate one of the two schools in the area, or attempting to get emergency vehicles through to a region almost entirely annexed by the construction. I would argue further that safety issues have already occurred, as school buses full of children have been forced to turn around in confined, limited visibility areas after encountering unexpected blockages. In addition, fire equipment arriving for a recent fire drill was forced to enter the Pike School through the one-way exit. Automobile drivers actually have been directed to proceed the wrong way down the Pike School's one-way driveway.

As hapless drivers seek passable routes by trial and error, they are occasionally met with less-than-pleasant advice from workers and officers. Last week, while turning onto a street that had been the only open road for the several days prior, I was hailed with a bellowed, "Hey!" from a duty officer. I stopped and he informed me in a surly manner that I could not pass that way. When I inquired if I could not get as far as the Pike School, his response: "Lady, unless that car has wings you can't go that way."

Unpleasant, unsafe and untenable. The situation requires immediate comment from town officials, mid-stream adjustments, appropriate management by community leaders and adequate communication to the citizens of Andover.

We are waiting.

Remember the "Tomato Tree"? Widely advertised in the Sunday supplements at one time, it looked like a small apple tree, covered with large, red tomatoes instead of apples. The reds and greens of the illustration were a potent color combination. This tree, discovered in – was it Brazil? – never before had been seen in the United States. For a tiny price, people could get cutting, and amaze their neighbors in three months or less with juicy, ripe tomatoes.

With visions of the Big Boy tomatoes I used to grow in Ohio, my mouth began watering, and I knew I had to try the Tomato Tree. I sent in my few dollars and received in a week or two a 6-inch cutting, barely alive, which I hustled into a large planter of the best potting soil. After all, tree roots were going to develop and require a lot of space. I watered it regularly – and I waited. And waited.

The plant lived, and grew. The leaves looked and smelled like tomato leaves. There was, however, never a sign of a tomato. I finally had to admit to myself that I had been expertly scammed. I stopped watering the plant and, like hope, it died. Chalk it up to experience, says I. I don't suppose any of the buyers ever returned a plant to get their money back. How the money must have rolled in!

I don't buy superstore tomatoes, even those with the vines still attached. They look like tomatoes, but have the texture of cardboard, useful for decorating a salad, but serving no edible purpose. In my mind I can see, smell, and even taste the glorious tomato of my youth – a five-inch globe, with a smooth red skin that could be peeled off if one was fussy, leaving succulent red flesh which, bitten into, would squirt seeds and juice all over one's clothes.

Recently I spotted a tomato ad on television. This time it was a hanging basket that one could grow on one's patio, or even a second-floor balcony. It was already planted and growing; soon there would be tomatoes that one could pick just by raising one's arm.

I could feel hope burgeoning; perhaps this time it would be different. If it hadn't been for the watering problem, I might have succumbed on the spot. But I could hear an internal voice (it sounded like my father) saying, "Elinor, don't you ever learn?"

Elinor Oberlin, a former Andover resident, writes from California.

Student: Laptop computer program was invaluable

Editor, Townsman:

I have recently read that the laptop computer program has been discontinued. I was shocked when I read this, for I was in the first laptop program in the town while at South Elementary School. I had the benefit of the program for only one year. I am now in seventh grade at West Middle School and I have been waiting for the program to reach the middle school level.

While at South Elementary, I learned how to do many things on a laptop. This made my school work easier and more comprehensive. Two programs that I learned while at South were Excel and PowerPoint, which I rely on routinely today. In Excel, I learned how to make charts and graphs, and how to use this program with simple statistics. I use PowerPoint for both class presentations and taking notes. Thirdly, I learned how to do Internet research for projects and class work. I use these skills all the time in seventh grade and I found my laptop to be an invaluable educational tool. Contrary to popular opinion, I do not use it for games. The return to paper and pencil wasn't difficult, although I did find that it was more time-consuming when editing my papers.

Nowadays, many colleges require students to have a laptop upon admission. In fact, it might not be computers, but some other advanced computer technology that I will use in the future. I think that I should be preparing for the future now, not later.

I am not sure MCAS, a measurement tool, would measure any differences between laptop users and other students because it isn't done on a computer. The things we learned in class were the same as anyone else in Andover. The difference was just how we learned it. Because of this program, my typing skills have improved and the quality of my work in each of my classes is also very good. I continue to use my computer independently at home.

I believe the real reason the program is being canceled is because of finances. The people who are judging this program should not cower behind the MCAS as an excuse, but they should tell the public the truth, the truth is that the laptop program is being canceled because of finances and because a few people felt that it was not open to everybody. People who wanted to be in the program and could not afford the money could have applied for assistance just as some do for the school-lunch program. It is my understanding that no one was turned away from the program. I also realize that not everyone learns better this way, but many do learn better. This program should be kept as an option for those students and for students who wish to learn this way. In addition, better ways of measuring its performance should be found too. I do hope that in the future private funding or some other way can be found to keep the program.

Y water brought her wave of friends, strength

Editor, Townsman:

I would like to share with readers my experience in becoming a strong swimmer.

I arrived in the United States on Jan. 18, 1992. Like most immigrants, my family and I have had to build a new life from almost nothing. It was often difficult, but I believe the struggle made me strong.

Although I lived in the former Soviet Union and had a lot of problems for all my life, I was afraid of a different style of life here. But learning the American culture and traditions and taking advantage of my experiences, I began to be strong. I am proud now to be an American.

I found different ways to be strong. One of them was attending the Andover/North Andover YMCA. I opened the door of that YMCA in 1994, 10 years ago. I swam almost every day since then. I have met wonderful people and made friends. The YMCA staff is excellent, friendly and pays attention to everybody. It is my second home; it is a wonderful place for improving health and social communication.

Even the cold weather doesn't stop me from swimming. I live in Andover public housing for the elderly and make my daily trip to the YMCA by shuttle bus. Finally, I can say that it is never too late to exercise. I think swimming is the best way to grow young and to be strong.

Mental illness

Walking the walk of support

Editor, Townsman:

NAMI World is no longer an island. Approximately 4,000 people walked the NAMI Walk in Boston on May 22.

The National Alliance for the Mentally Ill of Greater Lawrence and NAMI affiliates throughout the Commonwealth, friends of families from the NAMI of Massachusetts, many health agency members and aware citizens walked together to support, educate and advocate for families stricken by mental illness.

Hospital closings, medical costs, lack of housing, and stigma push people with brain disorders into the street, the courts and jails. An increasing number are driven to suicide. The chain effects of the state budget are infinite. The brutality of the budget on our most vulnerable citizens has critically impacted mental health care. Hospital and Department of Mental Health staffs have been mercilessly downsized.

NAMI families sit on many advisory boards that work to prevent, or at least patch, painful slashes in the system. But he Northeast Area Advisory Board, Essex/North Site Board, the Massachusetts Behavioral Health Advisory Board and our local NAMI affiliate need citizen participation.

We invite those interested in continuing to talk the talk and walk the walk to help mend our world.

The unveiling of the Andover World War II Memorial in the Park, during Memorial Day ceremonies Monday morning.

New memorial is a welcome addition to town

Editor, Townsman:

On Memorial Day, Andover unveiled a memorial honoring our hometown veterans of World War II who sacrificed their lives defending our nation's freedom. This long overdue monument became a reality because of the passion, leadership and hard work of two of Andover's finest citizens, John Doherty and Ted Cole. Our town owes both of these remarkable gentlemen our gratitude and respect. They are tireless servants who reflect the unselfish values that make our community and our nation so special.

Avoid 6 Costly Errors When Moving to a Larger Home and Save Thousands

ANDOVER - A new report has just been released which identifies the 6 most common and costly mistakes that homebuyers make when moving to a larger home.

Unlike the experience of buying a first home, when you're looking to move-up, and already own a home, there are certain factors that can complicate the situation. It's very important for you to understand these issues before you list your home for sale.

Not only is there the issue of financing to consider, but you also have to sell your present home at exactly the right time in order to avoid either the financial burden of owning two homes or, just as bad, the dilemma of having no place to live during the gap between closings.

In answer to this issue, industry insiders have prepared a free special report entitled "6 Mistakes to Avoid When Trading Up to a larger Home".

These six strategies will help you make informed choices before you put your home on the market in anticipation of moving to a larger home.

To hear a brief recorded message about how to order your copy of this free report, call 1-800-270-1577 and enter ID#3407. You can call anytime, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

Palettes & brushes will race the clock at New Paint 2004

By Andrea Gregory

IT WILL BE A RACE TO FINISH each and every brush stroke, drawn line and charcoaled shadow for the New Paint Auction on Saturday, June 5. Artists have eight hours to capture a Lawrence image.

Later that day, their works will be sold to the highest bidder, with proceeds going to Essex Art Center, a 10-year-old nonprofit organization.

The center's annual event gives artist a chance to show off their talent on the spot. Participating artists each choose a Lawrence location they will capture in their work. Artists will check in at 8 a.m., then fly off to their painting locations. Rain or shine, after eight hours they must bring their finished products to Jackson Lumber and Millwork at 215 Market St., Lawrence. The event begins at 6 p.m., giving the paint a little time to dry.

For Andover resident Tamara Krendel, of Marland Street, who has participated in the New Paint Auction for six years, the day is still intense.

"You could mess up. You could have a bad day," she said, sounding a little nervous. "It's highly stressful, but it's also exhilarating."

Krendel, who calls herself a "veteran" of the event, said a positive energy and a sense of camaraderie exist among the participating artists.

Every year, Krendel can be found at the same spot, in a parking lot off Merrimack Street where trucks are loaded. Using what she calls her "poetic realism style," Krendel lets her imagination influence her art. She said buildings can become taller or clouds can appear in her oil-painted sky, even on a clear, crisp day.

She said being familiar with her chosen spot helps, but there is still never enough time.

"Eight hours never seems like enough time," she said. "I am usually one of the last people there."

Sandy Dukeshire, of Penni Lane, will take on the challenge of the New Paint Auction for the first time. Earlier this week, in the midst of her prep work, she said she was not nervous.

"I'm kind of going in with my eyes shut," said Dukeshire. "I think it's going to be great. It sounds like a blast."

NEW PAINT 2004 AUCTION

- Saturday, June 5, 6 p.m.
- Jackson Lumber & Millwork, 215 Market St., Lawrence
- Tickets: $45 in advance, $55 at the door; reservations recommended

Dukeshire is taking a different approach to the New Paint Auction. For her, there will be no paint brushes or canvases. She specializes in stained glass and glass blowing. On the day of the event, she will melt together pieces of glass that will blend into a replica of Lawrence's clock tower. Her plan is to create a decorative stained-glass window that will also keep time.

Dukeshire has been working with glass for 13 years and sounds passionate about it. For the last six months, she has been teaching glass-blowing workshops through the art center at a facility in Hamilton.

Dukeshire said she drives by the old clock tower every time she goes to the Essex Art Center and has always thought of capturing it in glass.

As part of the New Paint 2004 Auction on Saturday, Sandy Dukeshire, of Penni Lane, will melt together pieces of glass to form a stained-glass window that will also keep time, a replica of Lawrence's clock tower.

"I don't think anyone has ever done it in glass before. So, I thought it would be kind of cool to do it," said Dukeshire.

Dukeshire will not be on location as most of the other artists will be. She will be composing her stained-glass piece at the Essex Art Center because she needs to use electricity.

But the time limit still applies. Even with the prep work out of the way, Dukeshire expects she will need the entire eight hours. "I'm going to be frantically putting it together," she said. "I'm looking forward to seeing how it comes out."

Tickets to the event are $45 in advance, or $55 at the door. For more information call 978-685-2343, or visit www.essexartcenter.com.

Allen named new director of PA's Addison Gallery of American Art

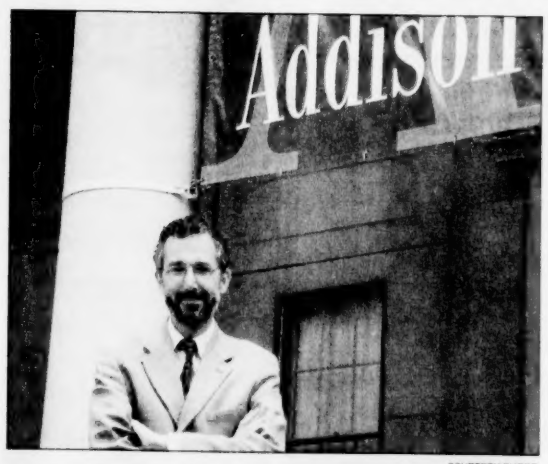

PHILLIPS ACADEMY announced the appointment of Brian T. Allen as the new director of the Addison Gallery of American Art, located on the academy's Andover campus.

Allen, who will take the reins of the Addison in August, currently serves as director of collections and exhibitions and curator of American art at the Sterling and Francine Clark Art Institute in Williamstown. His appointment completes a nine-month search to fill the job formerly held by Adam D. Weinberg, who left the Addison last summer to become director of the Whitney Museum of American Art in New York.

"Brian Allen has a deep knowledge of American art, extensive curatorial experience and an appreciation for the power of art to teach," said Barbara Landis Chase, head of school, who announced his appointment.

"His talents and experience are a particularly good match for the Addison, which is rooted in an educational institution but also has strong local, regional and national relationships."

"The Addison has an extraordinary collection and is well-known for its adventurous and distinguished exhibition program," said Allen. "As a frequent visitor over the years, I have been impressed with the high standards the Addison sets in curatorial work, exhibitions and educational programming. The Addison offers a director rare opportunities – the chance to work with and continue to build an outstanding collection, to engage with students and teachers and to collaborate with museums, schools and living artists both nationally and internationally."

Brian T. Allen will take the reins of the Addison in August.

Allen has worked since 1997 at the Clark, which is closely affiliated with Williams College and has its own graduate program in art history.

He organized numerous exhibitions, among them Sugaring Off: The Maple Sugar Paintings of Eastman Johnson; Jean-Francois Millet: Drawn into the Light; and Noble Dreams, Wicked Pleasures: Orientalism in American Culture, 1870-1930.

He has also been the curator of exhibitions on 19th century American art and has been involved with shows on subjects as disparate as contemporary architecture and French painting, as well as Old Master drawings and one-object shows.

Additionally, he has extensive teaching experience utilizing the Clark's permanent collection to teach established scholars, students and the public.

Allen received a doctorate in art history from Yale University in 1998. He also holds a JD degree from the University of Connecticut School of Law, a master's degree in art history from Williams College, and a bachelor's degree from Wesleyan University.

Prior to his museum career, he worked as chief of staff for the president pro tempore of the Connecticut General Assembly and practiced law with the firm of Day, Berry & Howard, which has offices in Boston and Hartford and Stamford, Conn.

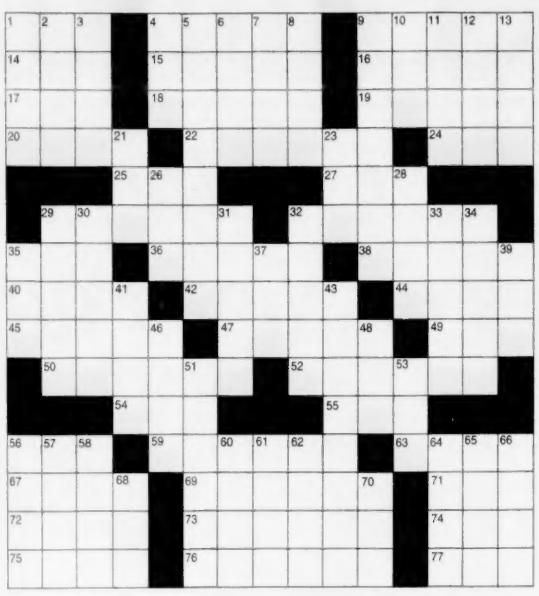

At the Addison, Allen will be responsible for overseeing the museum's exhibition schedule, for development of its collection, for planning educational programs in conjunction with the school's art department, for continuing the development of the Addison's active educational outreach activities – including its artist-in-residence program – and for fund-raising efforts tied to the Addison's strategic plan.

The Addison Gallery of American Art, established in 1930, has one of the most important compilations of American art in the country, according to Phillips Academy.

Its collection of more than 13,500 objects began with major works by the most prominent American artists of the past – among them Gilbert Stuart, John Singleton Copley, Benjamin West, Thomas Eakins, Winslow Homer, James McNeill Whistler and John Singer Sargent.

In the ensuing 70 years, aggressive purchasing and generous gifts in all media have added works by such artists as Alexander Calder, Hans Hofmann, Georgia O'Keeffe and Frank Stella, as well as comprehensive photographic holdings representing Walker Evans, Eadweard Muybridge, Berenice Abbott, Robert Frank and Hollis Frampton, among others.

Pianist and composer to give free concert at the library

Haskell Small

PIANIST AND COMPOSER Haskell Small will perform at Memorial Hall Library on Saturday, June 5, at 2 p.m. This concert is free.

Hailed by England's Musical Times for his "dazzlingly prodigious technique," Small first came to public attention after winning the Pittsburgh Concert Society audition at the age of 21. A recipient of a solo recitalist grant from the National Endowment for the Arts and a semifinalist in the Johann Sebastian Bach International Piano Competition, Small's concerts throughout the United States, including Carnegie Hall, Alice Tully, National Gallery of Art, the Kennedy Center and the Spoleto Festival, have won him an enthusiastic following, organizers said.

Small was featured in the PBS television special A Celebration of the Piano, taped at Wolf Trap. In recent seasons, Small has made several tours of Japan and performed recitals in Paris and London.

Following in the tradition of 18th and 19th century pianist/composers, Small is also an accomplished composer, often performing his own works. He has received commissions from such organizations as the Washington Performing Arts Society, Three Rivers Piano Competition, Georgetown Symphony and Paul Hill Chorale.

Small was the winner of the 1999 Marin Ballet Dance Score Competition. Subterranean, a ballet score commissioned by the Washington Ballet, was described by an audience member who said, "If that's what goes on in the subway, I'm heading down there tomorrow."

An evening of storytelling

Peterson: New stories to tell

IT BEGAN AT the Andover Bookstore three years ago, when Andover resident Lani Peterson brought her four young children to a Friday evening storyswap hosted by Susan Lenoe.

Inspired by Lenoe's whimsical tales and the courage of young children in the audience to share a story, Peterson dared herself to take a turn. She stood up that evening and reminisced about a trip to England taken during her college years and the adventure she encountered along the way.

That story, now titled "In Search of Charles Dickens," was the beginning of a storytelling journey that has taken Peterson to many new places she could never have imagined.

Peterson auditioned her story for the Three Apples Storytelling Festival, which is held each September in Harvard. To her delight and surprise, she was selected to perform. After telling her story to a large audience on a real stage, Peterson was hooked.

Since that fall of 2001, Peterson appeared at schools, conferences and festivals around New England, sharing her rapidly evolving collection of stories. Trained as a psychologist, Peterson enjoys developing personal stories that encourage adults as well as children to look within and explore their perspectives of the world from different viewpoints.

In spring 2003, Peterson released her first CD of original stories called Stories from Within, which contains her first story told at the Andover Bookstore as well as five other stories that relate her personal experience of living in the world.

She was contacted in January to learn that her story "Broken Glass" was chosen by Storytelling World Magazine to receive a national honor for best new adult story of 2004.

Peterson will appear at the Andover Bookstore this Friday evening, June 4 at 7:30 to share her repertoire of new stories in anticipation of her next CD.

Cannon named Student Organization Advisor of Year

Dr. Joan B. Cannon, associate professor of psychology and faculty advisor to Psi Chi, the National Honor Society in psychology at the University of Massachusetts Lowell, was selected as the 2003-04 university's Student Organization Advisor of the Year. This university award was bestowed upon her by the Student Government Association at its Student Activities Awards Banquet.

Cannon was recognized for her service and contributions to a student organization, Psi Chi. In addition, Psi Chi was recognized for its outstanding efforts and contributions to charitable causes and earned the "Outstanding Community Service by a Group" award. During this academic year, officers and members of Psi Chi have participated in the National Council's Adopt A Shelter Program and UNICEF's Skip A Meal Project for its children's program. More than 20 baskets of wish-list items were donated to the Alternative House, a Lowell shelter for battered women and their children, and several hundred dollars sent to UNICEF.

Cannon lives in Andover with her husband, Attorney Raymond J. Cannon, and their children.

Andover Post Office was recognized for its performance in safety, service and budget when senior leaders from the eastern region (zip codes 018-019) of the Massachusetts postal district met for their quarterly meeting recently in the District Office Building, North Reading. Post Office Operations Manager Barry P. Begley, left, and District Manager John W. "Mike" Powers III, right, commended Postmaster Nicolas Francescucci for the contributions his office has made to the success of the district.

This strategic acquisition strengthens Meeting Maker Inc.'s position in collaborative time-management and broadens its suite of Web-based collaborative calendaring/scheduling solutions, according to the company.

All WebEvent Inc. operations, including sales, support, and development will be conducted from Meeting Maker, Inc.'s corporate headquarters in Waltham. Meeting Maker Inc. said its "immediate focus is to work on integrating the products and knowledge base of the two companies and to ensure a seamless transition for WebEvent customers."

TRAVEL

Expected convention traffic woes lead some to take off for a week

By Ben Hellman

The week of the Democratic Convention is being dreaded by many Boston commuters, but some might use the week to take advantage of vacation time, said one Andover travel agency.

From Monday, July 26 to Thursday, July 29, Interstate 93 will close for the Democratic National Convention during the convention hours. Andover residents heading into Boston that week will find Interstate 93 closed at Interstate 95 in Woburn.

Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) service will also be affected. North Station will be closed to commuter rail, Orange and Green Line service from the evening of Friday, July 23 through Friday, July 30.

"I can only imagine what a nightmare that will be," said Kasia Miatkowsky, owner of Colpitts Travel.

Miatkowsky said she has had clients specifically book vacations to get out of Boston for the convention. She said she has already booked seven cabins aboard a Boston to Bermuda cruise offered by Norwegian Cruise Lines. Miatkowsky said clients going for the cruise will not even have to battle airport traffic.

Addison Travel owner Tom Keefe said he has not seen his business affected by the convention. "I can't see a trend," said Keefe. He said he does not think most people know what kinds of traffic problems the convention will cause.

"I don't think people have come to that realization," said Keefe.

However, Keefe said he has heard from clients who opted against a road trip this year because of increased gas prices. "Some people have decided not to drive and take planned vacations instead," said Keefe.

DESIGNED FOR EVERYONE

On Tuesday, May 25, the Andover Commission on Disability presented a plaque of commendation to the owners and management of the Chateau Restaurant at River Road. The award is the first of its kind to be presented to a local business that recognizes the needs of the disabled and creates a design that accommodates their particular needs. From left: Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski, Selectman Mary Lyman, Chateau owner Joseph Nocera, general manager Gerry Fugiero; Commission members Maddy St. Amand, Chairman Justin Coppola Sr., Justin Coppola Jr. and Donna Gorzela, and building director Kaija Gilmore.

BAR ASSOCIATION

Targeting auto-claim fraud

By Mark Vogler

The Lawrence Bar Association – lead by Andover lawyer Robert Gilbert – has issued a statement condemning auto insurance fraud "and any attorneys who participate in it." The statement said the group supports a vigorous effort to uncover fraud and punish those involved.

"No person, and particularly no lawyer, is above the law," Gilbert, president of the bar association, declared in a statement e-mailed to members and posted on the organization's Web site.

The 288-member group also said it would launch an educational program aimed at new lawyers "to insure that they recognize potentially fraudulent claims, and to assure them that they are in the mainstream of the profession when they refuse to assist in their clients' fraud."

The association issued the public statement in response to a crackdown by a fraud task force that has led to charges against 60 people. Several of those charged have told police that some lawyers and chiropractors paid for their business.

"We want to call people's awareness to the problem and we think we can make a difference," Gilbert said in an interview yesterday.

Gilbert said inexperienced lawyers eager for work are most likely to accept cases that might be based on fraud. "We don't want them to get the impression that it's acceptable to wink and nod when a client with a questionable case comes to them," Gilbert said. "Every lawyer who practices has a duty to the court to do an adequate investigation before they press their case."

Gilbert met with representatives of the Lawrence Police Department and the Insurance Fraud Bureau of Massachusetts earlier this year to ask their assistance in developing fraud detection programs for lawyers and to offer help in the ongoing investigation.

"They want to work with us because they're just as outraged as we are," said Police Chief John J. Romero, who organized the fraud strike force last fall that includes two Lawrence police detectives and investigators for the Insurance Fraud Bureau, the Essex County district attorney's office, the state attorney general's office and several insurance companies doing business in Lawrence.

"Responsible members of the Lawrence Bar Association have been in contact with us and are anxious to find ways of ridding Lawrence of the problems that plague the system there," said Insurance Fraud Bureau Executive Director Daniel J. Johnston.

Johnston said "a few dishonest professionals in any industry can damage the reputation for the vast majority of those who conduct their affairs honestly and in good faith."

Lawrence lawyer James Bowers, who chairs a new Lawrence Bar Association study group on lawyers and insurance fraud, plans to organize a series of round-table discussions with representatives of the insurance industry and law enforcement.

AHS ROUNDUP

Girls lax team starts tourney strong

Softball, baseball, girls track and both tennis teams finish out seasons on winning notes

By Rick Harrison

JUNIOR CENTER JACQUI MUNRO poured in four goals and Capt. Jeannie Lothrop added three, sparking the Andover High girls varsity lacrosse team to a 10-5 victory over visiting Weston in their MIAA Tournament North Division first-round game played Tuesday afternoon at Lovely Field.

The win pushed the Lady Warriors into the North quarterfinals, where they face off against familiar foe, neighbor and archrival North Andover this afternoon (Thursday, 4 p.m.) at the Scarlet Knights' Alvah G. Hayes Stadium.

"We're pumped for North Andover," said AHS first-year coach Emily Frey, whose team will enter the showdown with a 15-4 overall record. "They had some people at our game watching (scouting) us, so they must think we're an important opponent."

That goes without saying, because on May 11 the Lady Warriors handed North Andover the first of its two defeats this spring, 15-11. NA will be out to avenge that setback.

The Scarlet Knights, seeded fourth in an original field of 20 teams, are 15-2 overall. Andover is the No. 5 seed.

Elsewhere, several other Andover High varsity sports teams completed regular season play on a high note this spring.

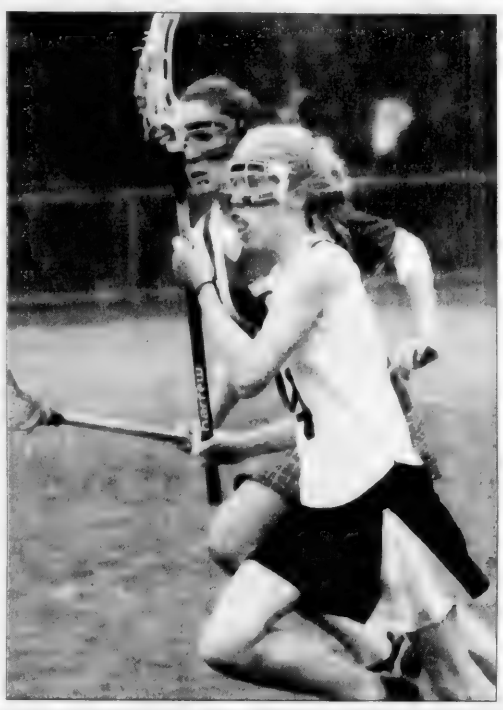

- The softball squad joined its baseball brethren by grabbing a share of the Merrimack Valley Conference Division 2 title, winning 11 of its last 12 games to finish 14-6 overall.
- The baseball team won the annual Lawrence Invitational Tournament, edging North Andover 8-7 in the title game, and will enter this Saturday's MIAA Division 1 North tourney opener riding a six-game win streak and owners of a 15-5 overall mark.
- Both tennis teams finished undefeated in MVC matches.
- Girls track placed second in a multi-team field at the annual Eastern Mass. Division 1 Championship Meet, with outstanding individual efforts by Felicia Thompson and Brittany Moriarty leading the way.

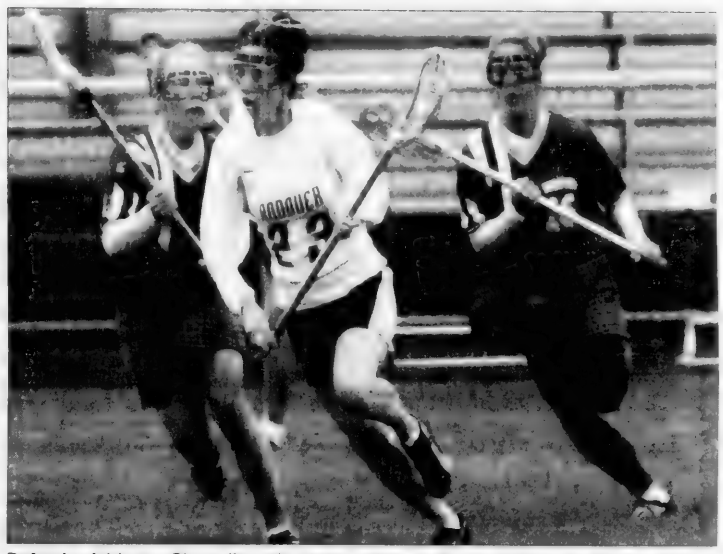

Rachel Fox fights to gain possession of the ball in the first tournament game.

Jeanne Lothrop (right) carries the ball up field past the Weston defense.

Lindsay Hegarty races past a Weston defender Tuesday afternoon at Lovely Field.

Defender Adrienne Shea slices the defense in two. The Lady Warriors defeated Weston, 10-5 in the MIAA Tournament North Division first-round game.

GIRLS LACROSSE

With the tournament win over Weston, the AHS girls erased memories of late-season struggles against a tough closing schedule that saw the locals lose three of their final five games to Salem (4-3), Billerica (10-6) and Concord-Carlisle (11-9).

Two of the regular season losses were by one goal, another by two and the other by four.

Leading scorers

Junior attack Maggie Lamond ranks among the top scorers in Eastern Massachusetts, boasting more than 60 goals and 100 points this spring.

Capt. Stephanie Sweeney is also a consistent offensive threat for the locals with more than 40 goals.

MIAA TOURNAMENT
FIRST ROUND
Andover 10
Weston 5

The Lady Warriors raced out to an 8-3 halftime lead and kept the defensive clamps on Weston throughout the second half.

Jacqui Munro and Jeannie Lothrop combined for seven goals, while Maggie Lamond notched two and Capt. Stephanie Sweeney had one.

"We played the kind of game that brought out all the positive things we work hard on in practice," said coach Emily Frey.

"We rode the ball very well and created some key turnovers forced by our continuous pressure.

"We played a very clean game, but we also got in their face and worked hard to control the field," added Frey. "We may have intimidated them at times."

Passing out an assist each for AHS were Bryanna Casey, Kate Nichols, Arianna Miliotis, Rachel Fox and Courtney Dynes.

Miliotis and Adrienne Shea also played their usual strong defensive games.

Sophomore goaltender Elissa Slovin finished with 11 saves, including several that Frey classified as "her best of the season."

The Wildcats, seeded 12th, finished with a 13-7 record.

REGULAR SEASON
Concord-Carlisle 11
Andover 9

After controlling play for much of the game, the Lady Warriors mysteriously faltered midway through the second half as C-C came roaring back for the non-league victory under the lights at Lovely Field.

"We wanted to play with more of an edge in this game than we had against Billerica (10-6 title-showdown loss)," said coach Emily Frey.

"We really jelled in the first half and led 7-4 when the momentum sudden shifted. Something just clicked for them and we stopped playing our game. Our passes weren't as crisp and we began to run around without purpose. Play got a little rough — not dirty but very aggressive."

Even though the latter part of the game (and season) was frustrating, the first-year AHS coach wasn't discouraged.

"Overall I was pleased with the effort," said Frey. "We lost while trying hard. Against Billerica we didn't want the win as much as they did. We didn't 'bring it' and we weren't physical enough.

"The attitude against Concord-Carlisle was much better — and we needed that heading into the tournament."

Junior sharpshooter Maggie Lamond led the offense against C-C with four goals while junior attack Bryanna Casey, junior center Jacqui Munro, sophomore Casey Salois and defense wings Jeannie Lothrop and Kate Nichols netted a goal each.

Nichols also passed out two assists and contributing a setup apiece were Capts. Stephanie Sweeney and Ali McCoy, defender Adrienne Shea and freshman attack Rachel Fox.

Goaltender Elissa Slovin finished with 10 saves.

Correction

There were several mistakes in the Andover scoring listed for the Billerica game capsulized in last week's Townsman.

The correct rundown: Rachel Fox and Kate Nichols netted two goals each, while Casey Salois contributed one goal, two assists and Maggie Lamond one goal.

SOFTBALL

The Andover High varsity softball team won its final two regular season games to claim a share of the Merrimack Valley Conference Division 2 championship for the third straight year.

AHS ROUNDUP

■ SOFTBALL

upset-minded Notre Dame Academy of Tyngsboro, 3-2, and trounced Haverhill, 11-1, to finish at 11-3 in conference play and 14-6 overall.

The locals had the same MVC record as Dracut, which blanked Lawrence High 5-0 in its finale after missing the outright championship by losing to Tewksbury, 5-2, in its previous game.

After starting the season off 3-5, coach Stephanie Ragucci's crew won 11 of its next 12 with the only loss to Methuen (3-0) in the opening round of the Methuen Tournament.

In 20 games this spring, AHS has outscored the opposition by a wide 96-39 margin including 76-14 in the last 12 outings.

"These girls have come a long way," said Ragucci. "This is the best regular season record we've had since I've been here (eight years)."

AHS is 84-66 over the last seven seasons and Ragucci's career record is now 87-82 heading into the MIAA Division 1 North Tournament.

MIAA Tournament

Andover is the No. 8 seed in a 22-school Division 1 North field.

The locals received a preliminary round bye and skip through to the first round of the single-elimination tourney, where they host No. 9 seed Newton North (13-7) tomorrow (Friday) at the AHS field (3:30 p.m.).

All-Conference

AHS placed two players on the 2004 MVC All-Conference Team, while two others were voted to the All-Star squad.

Named All-Conference are junior pitcher Caitlin Carpentier and senior catcher Lauren Vieira, while All-Stars are slugging senior first baseman Emily Farmer and senior shortstop Liz Pallotta.

Stephanie Ragucci was also selected MVC Division 2 Coach of the Year for the third straight season.

The players participated in the annual MVC All-Star Game this past Monday night under the lights at James Martin Field in Lowell.

Andover 11
Haverhill 1

The thrice-postponed season finale, which was also Senior Day, was highlighted by three mammoth AHS homers smacked by Emily Farmer and Capts. Lauren Vieira and McGill University-bound Liz Pallotta.

It is believed to be the first time an AHS softball team has ever homered three times in the same game.

"After all the recent rain we spent a lot of time before the game fixing up our field," said coach Ragucci. "Maybe we should do that for every home game because look at the result. Everyone was very focused and ready to play.

"Although the Lady Warriors slammed the Hillies 10-1 earlier this season, this loomed as a possible 'trap game.'

"We had a lot at stake (league co-title) but our kids easily could have overlooked this game," said Ragucci. "Their pitcher throws very slow and sometimes those are the hardest to hit."

The same Haverhill hurler recently beat MVC Division 1 champ Chelmsford, throwing the timing of the Lions' batters way off in a stunning 2-0 Hillies' upset.

AHS junior Caitlin Carpentier (10-6) was far-and-away the better pitcher on this one, however, tossing a complete-game four-hitter while striking out 10 and issuing no walks. All four Haverhill hits were singles.

The MVC 2 co-champs wasted no time taking charge, bolting to a 3-0 first-inning lead and doing all the damage with two outs.

Farmer launched the rally with a single and she quickly stole second. Vieira singled, Meagan Merinder hammered a two-run double to center field and Pallotta rescued Merinder with another two-bagger to center.

The four-run third opened with a one-out single by Farmer, and then Vieira blasted a two-run homer over the leftfielder's head.

Merinder walked and Pallotta followed with a two-run homer to center.

The lead jumped to 9-0 in the fourth when sophomore Maria Nasta reached on an error, and Farmer tomahawked an eye-high 3-2 pitch to center field for the third homer of the game.

"It was windy and their outfielders kept moving back — but not far enough," said Ragucci. "All three homers were well-hit bombs. Emily picked on ball four, up high where she could get a good look at the pitch and drive it."

In the fifth Carpentier walked, Anastasia Sullivan laced a grounder through the shortstop hole and Carolyn Ciampa reached on a fielder's choice.

Hannah Brady singled to left, plating Sullivan, and Nasta followed with another RBI single to left for an 11-0 lead.

Haverhill spoiled Carpentier's bid for the Lady Warriors' sixth shutout of the season by pushing across a run in the sixth.

Farmer sparked the 11-hit assault with three safeties, three runs scored and two RBI.

Pallotta doubled, homered and drove in three runs, while Vieira was 2-for-3 with three RBI and two runs scored. Merinder doubled, drove in two and scored two.

After the game the seven seniors (Farmer, Pallotta, Vieira, Merinder, Ciampa, Lindsey Timko and Kristen Couture) were presented with flowers and a small reception was held for the players and their parents.

"With all the postponements the flowers had been in the fridge since Monday," said Ragucci, pleased that they hadn't wilted. "It was nice to honor those senior girls who have given a lot to our program."

Andover 3
Notre Dame Academy 2

The first time these two teams collided this spring Andover won, 17-1, in a game shortened to five innings by the mercy rule.

The host Lancers put up a much better fight in the rematch, and made things very interesting in the seventh inning when they left the tying and winning runs on base.

Andover broke a scoreless deadlock with three runs in the fourth, and undefeated freshman pitcher Katie Anderson (4-0) carried a shutout and 3-0 lead into the seventh.

The Lady Warriors' rally started with a double to center by Lauren Vieira, a single by Liz Pallotta who then stole second, and a two-run single by sophomore Emily Cummings.

Anderson singled and Lindsey Timko drove home the eventual winning run with a two-out single.

NDA mounted a spirited comeback in the final stanza, scoring twice and loading the bases before Anderson recorded the final out.

"Katie was a little wild and a bit nervous in the last inning," said coach Ragucci. "There were two walks and Notre Dame had a bleeder and blooper to keep the rally alive. No one hit the ball hard."

The second run scored on Payal Agrawal's infield ground-out to Pallotta at short. The game ended when the next batter, Nikki Dumond, also grounded to Pallotta who threw her out at first.

Anderson finished with a four-hitter, striking out six and walking three to best Amanda Bovill who allowed 11 hits, fanned five and didn't walk a batter.

Vieira had a perfect 3-for-3 day at the plate. "She's hit a few bombs lately," said Ragucci. "It seems every time up Lauren hits the ball hard."

Timko and Anderson lashed two safeties each and other hits were contributed by Maria Nasta, Emily Farmer, Pallotta and Cummings.

Christine Lage had an RBI single and scored a run for Notre Dame.

BASEBALL

The Andover High varsity baseball team headed down the homestretch at a full gallop, stretching its win streak through six games with a 10-2 non-league romp over Revere and a pair of one-run wins to capture the title at the 2004 Lawrence Invitational Tournament.

The Golden Warriors edged Methuen, 6-5, in the tourney semifinals and nipped North Andover, 8-7, in the championship final at Methuen High.

Those results left head coach Ken Maglio's crew at 15-5 overall, including 9-4 as Merrimack Valley Conference Division 1 co-champs.

The name of an Andover player was inadvertently omitted from those listed last week as MVC All-Star choices.

AHS ROUNDUP

teammates Kyle Ahern and Ryan Shepard on the squad, while senior third baseman Brian Buckley and senior centerfielder Jarrett Mackin are All-Conference.

MIAA Tournament

The Golden Warriors, who have won four Division 1 North championships since 1991, are seeded No. 4 in a 22-school field.

The only teams ahead of the locals are top seed Peabody (14-4), No. 2 Middlesex League champ Reading (15-5) and No. 3 Cambridge Rindge & Latin.

AHS received a preliminary round bye and opens the single-elimination tourney this Saturday afternoon at Peter Aumais Park (2 p.m.), hosting the winner of today's prelim between No. 13 Waltham (11-9) and No. 20 Lynn Classical (10-10).

LAWRENCE TOURNAMENT CHAMPIONSHIP GAME
Andover 8
North Andover 7
(8 innings)

The Golden Warriors, who played Revere earlier the same day, fell behind the Scarlet Knights 7-3 in the third inning before charging back for the extra-inning triumph.

Jon Volinski did an outstanding job in relief, stemming the tide and making the comeback possible with 5 2/3 innings of two-hit, shutout ball.

Volinski (1-0) struck out eight and retired the first eight batters he faced.

The comeback was launched with a three-run fifth in which the champs batted around. A single by Brian Buckley and double from Joel Keefe were the only hits in the inning, but a walk, three hit batsmen and a sac-fly by Matt Hogan all helped.

Andover tied it 7-7 with a run in the sixth as Buckley doubled, Paul Malaguti ripped a two-out single and Buckley crossed when the ball was misplayed in the outfield.

In the top of the eighth freshman Dan Godefroi beat out an infield hit, took second on a passed ball and scored the winning run on a clutch two-out single to left by Capt. Ryan Shepard.

NA caused some anxious moments in the bottom of the inning, loading the bases with two outs on a pair of singles and a walk.

Volinski then ended the game dramatically by fanning the next batter for the final out.

Buckley laced three hits and scored three runs for the Golden Warriors, while Shepard added two hits, three RBI and Malaguti had two hits, two ribbies.

SEMIFINAL
Andover 6
Methuen 5

This semifinal game was also the rubber game between the MVC 1 co-champs, who split two regular season meetings with Andover winning the first, 4-2, and Methuen the second, 12-3.

Andover scored a pair of runs in the top of the seventh to take a 6-3 lead, and then survived a Methuen two-run rally in the bottom of the inning to escape with the exciting victory.

In the AHS seventh Dan Godefroi led with a double to right, Ryan Shepard drew a two-out walk and Paul Malaguti drilled a two-run double to right field.

The champs notched their first run in the second and added three in the fourth with key strokes by Matt Hogan (single), Matt Iorio (RBI double) and Godefroi (two-run double).

Kyle Ahern improved to a team-best 6-2 on the mound with a complete-game victory, yielding seven hits and three earned runs while fanning five, walking six and hitting a batter.

Godefroi, Hogan and Iorio paced the Golden Warriors' 10-hit attack with two safeties each while Jarrett Mackin, Brian Buckley and Anthony Perry laced one apiece.

Andover 10
Revere 2

In completing a non-league home-and-home sweep of the Patriots (13-2 earlier win), Andover pounded out 14 hits and blew the game open by sending 10 batters to the plate and scoring five runs in the bottom of the fourth at Aumais Park.

Dan Godefroi (3-1) was the winning pitcher, the freshman lefty tossing five innings of three-hit ball. Both Revere runs were unearned.

Jon Volinski and Peter Burke-Wallace mopped up with an inning of hitless relief each.

Ten AHS players hit safely with Brian Buckley (RBI), Ryan Shepard (three RBI) and Matt Iorio (two runs scored) drilling two each.

Leadoff batter Jarrett Mackin contributed a hit and three RBI, while Joel Keefe tripled and scored three runs.

TRACK & FIELD

Junior Brittany Moriarty continued her domination of the 800 meters, breaking her own school record and emerging as one of two Andover High individual Division 1 girls champions in the annual Eastern Mass. Meet held at Cawley Memorial Stadium's Haggerty Track in Lowell.

Moriarty ran the 800 in 2:18.42, eclipsing her week-old mark of 2:18.58 which had smashed a 27-year-old AHS standard set in 1977.

Moriarty shared the spotlight with fellow junior Felicia Thompson, the talented thrower who accounted for 18 of the Lady Warriors' points with a first place in the discus (118'4") and second in the shot put (36'3 1/4")

Her discus toss was 10 feet farther than runner-up Marissa Gaskin of Newton North, while Thompson missed being a double winner when her best throw in the shot fell just five inches shy of winner Nirva Guirand of Cambridge Rindge & Latin.

The stellar performances by Moriarty and Thompson led the Andover girls to second place in a 27-school field, the locals' 51 points surpassed only by the 81 piled up by runaway champ Newton North.

The top four in each event, along with several selected fifth-place finishers, qualified for the All-State Meet which is this Saturday at Holyoke High (10 a.m. field events, 11 a.m. running events).

Automatic AHS qualifiers are Moriarty, Thompson, Brittany Pierce, Meghan Keefe, Jen Merinder, Vin Errico, Chris Cole, Gabe Greeley and Dave Checrallah.

EMASS. DIVISION 1 MEET AT CAWLEY STADIUM, LOWELL
Andover girls

Sophomore Brittany Pierce contributed a third in the 100 meter high hurdles (16.53), after posting the best time in the preliminaries (16.17), while sophomore Jen Merinder was fourth in the 300 meter intermediate hurdles (47.17).

Record-shattering Andover High girls track team half-miler Brittany Moriarty (center) stands at the top of the winner's podium after she placed first in the Eastern Mass. Division 1 800 meter run in the Championship Meet at Lowell's Cawley Memorial Stadium. For the second straight week, Moriarty set a new school record in the event, finishing in 2:18.42 to qualify for this Saturday's All-State Meet at Holyoke High. A week earlier, Moriarty broke a 27-year-old school standard that had withstood every challenge since 1977 when she ran 2:18.58.

Junior Miler Kelly Morrissey was 11th in the triple jump (33'6") and senior Charlene Fielding also competed (17th, 31'6 3/4").

Senior two-miler Jazzy Dingler placed 16th in 12:37.23 and Jessie Shields threw the shot 29'6 1/4."

Andover boys

AHS showed its depth while chalking up 42 points for fifth in the Division 1 team standings.

Junior Miler Kelly Morrissey was 11th in the triple jump (33'6") and senior Charlene Fielding also competed (17th, 31'6 3/4").

Senior two-miler Jazzy Dingler placed 16th in 12:37.23 and Jessie Shields threw the shot 29'6 1/4."

Strong non-scoring efforts were added by Caroline Pierce in both the 100 meters (13.22) and long jump (10th, 14'5").

Freshman Lauren Keefe was seventh in the pole vault (7'0") and senior Keriann Bartley tied for eighth place (7'0").

Chrissy Peracchi also competed in the 100 meter dash (13.46) and junior Emily Korba in the 400 meters (14th, 63.24).

Senior Capt. Matia Kostakis placed ninth in the discus (89'10").

Milers were junior Michelle Pirro (11th, 5:36.62), junior Leslie Willey (13th, 5:41.48) and sophomore Courtney Hamer (16th, 5:45.49).

Senior Capt. Allison Kenvan was fifth in the high jump after clearing the bar at 5'0."

Junior Libby Fortier took sixth in the pole vault (7'6").

The 4x800 relay added a fourth with its 9:54.05 clocking

The Lady Warriors' 4x100 sprint relay of Caroline Pierce, freshman Chrissy Perocchi, Brittany Pierce and Capt. Amanda Carlson finished fifth (51.54)

Senior Capt. Vin Errico placed second in the 300 meter intermediate hurdles, with his 40.44 clocking trailing only Lexington junior Jon Cunha (39.59)

Errico also competed in the triple jump but his 39'4 3/4" distance did not place.

Junior Chris Cole finished a solid second in the discus (137'3"), and he was one of a handful of athletes to score twice in the meet with a fifth in the 300 hurdles (41.16).

Junior Dave Checrallah also placed in two throwing events, third in the javelin with a mighty 173'3" heave and fifth in the discus (128'8").

Junior Gabe Greeley was a pleasant surprise with a second place in the pole vault, clearing 12 feet which trailed only winner Julio Faria of Lowell (13'6").

Junior Kyle MacKenzie threw 48'2 1/2" in the shot put, good enough for fifth place behind four 50-plus throwers.

Sophomore sprinter Pierre Hage was sixth in the 200 meters (23.55).

The Golden Warriors' 4x100 sprint relay placed fourth (44.26), missing first by 28/100ths of a second, and the 4x800 foursome was sixth (8:17.91).

Senior Capt. Ryan Durkin, the MVC champ in the two-mile, barely missed scoring by 1/100th of a second when he finished seventh in 9:43.13.

Also competing were senior Capt. Ryan Donahue (11.87 seconds), sophomore Jeff Belardo (12.16) and sophomore Jason Sheldon (12.20) in the 100 meters.

Senior Bruce Hilman ran 24.12 in the 200 meters and soared 17'9" in the long jump.

Junior Vasili Kostakis was 13th in the 400 meters (53.04) and junior miler James Primes crossed in 4:52.52.

Sophomore Adam Cuomo was 11th in the 110 meter high hurdle semifinals (16.50) and eighth in the prelims (16.33).

Senior Matt Hill had a top distance of 37'6 3/4" in the triple jump, while junior shot putters Mike Gustin (43'4 1/2") and Mike Cerchione (42'7 3/4") finished 16th and 19th respectively

BOYS VOLLEYBALL

The Andover High boys volleyball team had a short stay in the MIAA Division 1 North Tournament, dropping a tough 3-2 decision to host Boston Latin Academy in a first-round match that couldn't have been closer

The fifth-and-final game was a seesaw affair that Latin eventually won by two points, the slimmest of margins in volleyball.

The setback left coach George Sullivan's crew, the Merrimack Valley Conference Division 2 runner-up this spring, with a final overall record of 11-11

"We didn't play well in the first two games," said Sullivan. "I think we were the better team but our guys didn't seem to believe it until we began the comeback in game three

"We made some significant lineup changes along the way and in the final three games we played with a lot of heart and pride."

The undermanned Golden Warriors played without Capt Sean Cummings (ankle injury) and Alex Levine

All-Conference

Senior middle hitter Jake Kleinman is one of 10 players, with only two from Division 2 schools, named to the 2004 MVC All-Conference Team

Andover also had two junior defensive specialists, Pardeep Thandi and Sam Silverman, tabbed for the MVC All-Star squad.

Team banquet

One of the captains for the 2005 team has been chosen, but that selection will not be announced until next month's team banquet tentatively scheduled for Bertucci's in North Andover.

There will also be several varsity and JV awards presented at that time.

MIAA Tournament
Division 1 North
First Round Match
Boston Latin Academy 3
Andover 2

Despite being down two key players, the Golden Warriors battled to the end and came from behind to almost pull out the victory in Boston.

No. 8 seed Latin Academy won the first two games, 30-22 and 30-28, putting Andover in a huge hole which the locals escaped by taking the third game, 30-23, and the fourth game, 30-27.

The final game went down to the wire before Latin squeezed out a 15-13 triumph to advance to the quarterfinal round against top seed MVC 1 champ Lawrence.

Capt. Jake Kleinman capped his AHS career with another monster performance, finishing with 16 kills, 59-for-63 hitting, 19-for-20 serving and 48-for-54 passing.

"I don't know how he did it all season," said coach Sullivan. "Jake never came off the court and he was in the middle of almost every play."

Junior outside hitter Chris James played what Sullivan termed his best match of the season with 14-for-17 hitting, 16-for-16 serving and 31-for-36 passing.

"Chris and Jerry Mohan played with intelligence and plenty of emotion," noted the AHS coach. "It was clear this meant a lot to them."

Mohan, a sophomore moved from outside to middle hitter for the last three games, went 39-for-43 hitting with eight kills. He was 7-for-9 passing and his blocking was excellent.

Junior defender Sam Silverman was 22-for-24 passing and 26-for-26 serving, while sophomore Matt Jacobs finished 8-for-9 serving and 15-for-21 passing.

Sophomore setter Darren McRoy contributed 10-for-11 hitting, with two kills, and 5-for-8 serving.

Senior 6'7" middle hitter Ian McMahon went 13-for-17 hitting, with one kill, in his final AHS match.

Defensive specialist Pardeep Thandi, one of eight underclassmen on the court for the season-ender, finished 52-for-61 passing.

Two players promoted from the undefeated AHS junior varsity for the tourney, Mike Gianopoulos and Luke Bruno, played without fear in their varsity debuts.

Bruno was 28-for-29 hitting and 17-for-19 serving, with two aces, while setter Gianopoulos went 29-for-37 passing, 17-for-17 serving with one ace and 9-for-10 hitting with one kill.

"Mike and Luke did a very nice job," said Sullivan. "They fit right in (with the varsity)."

GIRLS TENNIS

The Andover High girls tennis team completed a perfect 19-0 regular season, including 18-0 in the Merrimack Valley Conference, with a 5-0 sweep of Central Catholic in the final pre-tournament match at the AHS courts.

The Lady Warriors, winners of 15 consecutive conference titles, captured all 19 matches by 5-0 scores and lost only two sets all spring.

Schedule

MIAA Division 1 North Tournament pairings were scheduled for release yesterday, after Townsman presstime.

Andover, undefeated Winchester and Dual County League powers Concord-Carlisle and Newton South should battle it out for the girls North title.

Andover 5
Central Catholic 0

It was business as usual in the MVC finale for the champs, who dropped only two games in singles and five games in doubles.

Capt. Marsha Mogilevich blasted Amanda Carroll 6-0, 6-0 in first singles, while sophomore second singles Hannah Zarkar romped to a 6-1, 6-0 triumph over Sarah Shadallah and junior third singles Christie Spang slammed the Raiders' Julie Fiorello 6-0, 6-1.

Freshman Rikki Sartor and senior Argentinian exchange student Gui Almada registered a methodical 6-3, 6-1 victory over Catherine Pelletier and Meg McCleary at first doubles.

Senior Capt. Brittany Roy and junior Jodi Richards completed the romp with a 6-0, 6-1 second doubles conquest of Tyler Szymanski and Kara Crowley.

BOYS TENNIS

The Andover High boys tennis team missed out on a perfect regular season, but did finish undefeated in the Merrimack Valley Conference, as it lost to non-league Reading, 3-2, and slapped Central Catholic, 4-1, in recent matches.

Those results left coach Mike Wartman's crew, which clinched its 16th Merrimack Valley Conference championship in the last 20 years, at 15-1 overall and 14-0 in the MVC.

Schedule

MIAA Division 1 North Tournament pairings were scheduled for release yesterday, after Townsman presstime, and AHS should be playing its first tourney match at home either today or tomorrow afternoon.

Andover 4
Central Catholic 1

The Golden Warriors went with an all-senior lineup in the regular season finale at the Merrimack College courts.

Capts. Jason Edelstein and Brian Axelrod made it look easy at second and third singles, romping to straight-set wins over Zach Szymanski (6-0, 6-1) and Corey Michaud (6-0, 6-4) respectively.

First doubles was no contest as Dan Jordan and Dave Szafarz blitzed the Raiders' Mike Michaud and Dave Trull 6-0, 6-0.

Max Chistyakov and Dave Tanklefsky had the strongest opposition at second doubles, but still came away with a symmetrical 6-3, 6-3 decision over Chris DiPietro and Matt Sansoucie.

Although he lost at first singles Capt. Avi Lasser gave Jason Sechrist, the state's best singles player, a tussle while becoming the first opponent this spring to win more than two games against the CCHS mega-talent.

Sechrist won the match 6-1, 6-4.

Reading 3
Andover 2

Even though the Rockets were without a top singles (ill) and doubles (injured) player, they had enough to barely slip past visiting AHS in this battle of Middlesex League and Merrimack Valley Conference powers.

The loss spoiled the Golden Warriors' bid for an undefeated regular season, but served as a solid tuneup for the Division 1 North Tournament where these two schools could meet again.

Reading, which finished 18-2 with both losses to Middlesex champ Winchester, picked up its points with convincing victories at first and third singles and a triumph at second doubles.

Andover countered with a hard-fought 6-2, 6-7 (4-7), 6-1 three-set win at second singles by Jason Edelstein, and a 7-6 (7-4), 6-1 victory at first doubles from the team of Josh Caplan and Jeremy Hogan.

"Jason did some strong stroking from the baseline and he volleyed effectively," said coach Wartman. "It was encouraging the way he came back in the third set after a tough loss in the second."

Ian Salter topped Avi Lasser 6-1, 6-3 at first singles and Brian Axelrod was also a straight-set victim at third singles as Reading's Christoph Forster prevailed 6-0, 6-3.

"Avi and Brian both had trouible getting going and hurt themselves with a number of unforced errors," noted Wartman.

In second doubles, the Rockets' tandem of Dave McIsaac and Jeff Grossman outlasted Andover's Mike Zakin and Dave Szafarz 6-2, 4-6, 6-1.

"We matched up well with them in doubles," said Wartman. "Our second doubles worked their way back into the match nicely before the momentum shifted back to Reading in the third set.

"If we play Reading again in the tournament both teams will have a different lineup," added Wartman.

BOYS LACROSSE

The Andover High boys varsity lacrosse team, which finished the regular season 11-7 overall after beating Ashland (18-14) and Acton-Boxboro in its final two games, opens the MIAA Division 1 East Tournament this Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m. with a first-round game at St. John's Prep in Danvers.

This is not an easy assignment for the Merrimack Valley Conference co-champion Golden Warriors, who dropped a 10-3 non-league regular season decision to SJP on May 24.

Coach Wayne Puglisi's AHS laxmen will be looking to senior attack Toby Cohen, senior attack Bobby Grant, sophomore midfielder Buddy Farnham, sophomore attack Mike Lamagna and junior goaltender Zach Gostanian to lead them past the Eagles in the single-elimination tournament.

Under the power seeding format used in lacrosse, Andover is No. 12 in a 17-team qualifying field while St. John's Prep (14-4) is seeded No. 5.

The Andover/SJP winner advances to the quarterfinals to face the winner of the first rounder between No. 4 Beverly (15-4) and No. 13 New Bedford (16-2).

Dates for the quarterfinals were unknown at presstime, but if Andover and Beverly win the Warriors will be on the road while a New Bedford victory puts the game in Andover.

Candice Peak of Andover, a sophomore at Andover High and high-scoring member of the five-time reigning AHS state champion swim and dive team, recently competed for the Magnus Aquatic Swim Club at the four-day Tyr Meet of Champions in Mission Viejo, California.

Peak highlighted the weekend competition for the locals by placing sixth in the 100 meter backstroke.

She swam in a heat that included three of the top eight finishers at this year's NCAA Women's Division 1 collegiate championships.

Many Olympians were in attendance and among the performances recorded was the fifth fastest 1,500 freestyle time in the world.

The Meet of Champions is a designated pre-Olympic qualifying event for the Olympic Trials to be held in Long Beach, Calif. in July.

These types of meets have very fast qualifying times and feature former and future Olympians, NCAA champions and professional swimmers of all ages.

Peak is set to participate on the next stop of the USA Swimming Grand Prix in Charlotte, N.C. June 10-13.

At AHS as a freshman in the fall of 2002, Peak scored in three events at the All-State Meet.

Last fall she was second in the 100 yard backstroke (59.33), third in the 100 free (54.39) and swam a leg on the state champion 200 free relay (1:40.94) and runner-up 400 free relay (3:41.94) at the All-State Meet.

Mike Spring is Peak's club team coach and his mother-in-law, Marilyn Fitzgerald, coaches Candice on the high school squad.

Kevin Shepard of Andover, a junior standout and the winningest member of the Boston College baseball team's pitching staff this spring, was recently named Big East third team for the second straight season.

With his recent Big East Tournament win over top-seed Notre Dame at Commerce Bank Ballpark in Bridgewater, N.J., lefthander Shepard owns an 8-4 record and 3.51 ERA.

Heading into the tournament, opponents were batting .252 against the southpaw who had recorded 50 strikeouts in 84 2/3 innings.

After the win over ND the Eagles were 31-25 and 16-9 in Big East play, with a 17-6 record over a 23-game stretch including 8-2 in the conference.

Geography whiz enjoys great rookie season

An Andover first: Sixth-grader Chandra places 16th in National Geography Bee

By Judy Wakefield

IN A FIELD OF MOSTLY 13- AND 14-YEAR-OLD eighth-graders, the geography whiz kid from Andover who is only 11 stood out like the peak of the Himalayas on the Nepal-Tibet border, the Roof of the World – you know, Mount Everest.

Krishnan Chandra, a sixth-grader at West Middle School, represented Massachusetts in last week's National Geographic Bee for middle-schoolers, held in Washington, D.C.

Fifty-five contestants – one from each state, US territory and Washington, D.C. – showed off their knowledge of the world in the competition which gave the 14-year-old winner from Kansas a $25,000 college scholarship.

Krishnan placed 16th in the event, prompting his social studies teacher Walter Rossini to call it a "a wonderful feat" for a rookie national contender.

"Winning the Massachusetts Bee and finishing 16th in the National Bee are obviously Andover firsts. I know all of the teachers and students at West Middle School are proud of Krishnan. I called (Principal) Kathy Hammond each day to update her on Krishnan's progress," said Rossini, who attended the bee with Krishnan and his parents, Venkat and Prema Chandra of Longwood Drive.

After answering eight questions correctly, it was this one – what is the easternmost capital city in Asia? – that knocked out Krishnan. He answered Pyongyang, the capital of North Korea. The correct answer is Seoul, South Korea.

"It's not easy," was how he summed up the bee. "And, now I'm looking forward to playing with my Game Cube when my homework is done, instead of studying more geography."

He spent more than two months studying for the bee. Every night after his regular homework was done, Krishnan studied, and weekend studying ate up several more hours, he said. He won the West Middle School geography bee, beat out hundreds of kids in the state bee in April and, therefore, qualified for the national bee.

All the while he kept his cool, saying he simply likes

Teens launch rock opera

Zantalamus, featuring 18 original songs, plays Friday night

By Judy Wakefield

Think Wizard of Oz and Dorothy making all those friends along the Yellow Brick Road.

Fast forward to 2004 and two Andover teens putting their creative spin on a contemporary yellow brick road adventure. Dorothy is replaced by a monkey king while a villain named Zantalamus takes on that wicked witch role in a rock opera being staged this weekend.

The show is the brainchild of Andover High senior Mark Brickman, 17, and Craig Masterson, 19, who graduated from AHS in 2002. They're Tommy buffs meaning they both really like rock music and the popular rock opera, Tommy. Both are musicians – they play electric guitar – and wish there were more rock operas out there. But, there aren't.

So, they spent about a year writing this one, rounded up a slew of musicians, thespians and one teacher from Andover High, and swear it will be a big hit.

They won't reveal too much of this rock opera plot, but here's what they did divulge: it's the story of two brothers who are reunited when they save the day from evil.

"Mr. Kolbe, a Spanish teacher at Andover High, is the monkey king and he's good. Zantalamus is evil," Brickman said, noting that the show is for all ages as his grandmother is coming in from Florida to see it.

Writers Mark Brickman (with guitar and baseball hat) and Craig Masterson (with guitar and green T-shirt), are surrounded by their rock opera cast, made up of Andover High students.

Zantalamus,
a rock opera, 18 original songs and 7-piece band
Written, directed by local teens Craig Masterson, Mark Brickman
- Friday, June 4, doors open at 7:30
- Old Town Hall, 20 Main St.
- Opening act Sierra Juice Company
- Tickets: $7

"It's the hero's quest," summed up Masterson. "It's about all the people they meet along the way.

"Think Wizard of Oz and the friends they meet. It's a fun story and has the same spirit," he said.

There's no Scarecrow, Lion or Tin Man, but there are a bunch of animals, a doctor, Eskimos and pirates joining the cast of two brothers.

"And, it's an explosion of funk at the end," Masterson said.

Childish, perhaps, Masterson said of the show.

"But it's an adventure and it's lively," said Masterson, who plays guitar in the band Sierra Juice Company, which is the opening act.

Hard to miss are the names of those reunited brothers. Their names are Mark and Craig and viewers won't forget as the actors wear T-shirts emblazoned with their names.

"What can I say? I wanted to be in the show," Brickman said somewhat seriously.

He's also has a hand in the show's songs, as he and Masterson wrote all 18 of them. A seven-piece band will perform them on stage. It will most likely be loud – very loud – as Masterson said his inspiration comes from a performance of Jesus Christ Superstar that he recently saw.

"The music just wasn't loud enough," he said. "And, I started thinking how I would make the music the way I wanted if I ever did a rock opera."

Brickman plays electric guitar for the local band, Clay, which is about to cut a new CD. He also has an artistic side as he represented Andover High School at a statewide art competition at the Worcester Art Museum two years ago.

It's his music side coming through with this show as he wrote every guitar line, and is just thrilled how his rock opera idea "just took off" in the Andover High hallways. Lots of kids tried out and are taking part in the show.

Many of them performed in the recent production of Tommy at the high school and enjoy rock operas musicals.

"I've always wanted to do this, write a rock opera," said Brickman, who has been a member of the Andover Youth Council for two years.

"It will be a great show."

◀ Rock opera authors Mark Brickman (left) and Craig Masterson, both of Andover, wrote the story of two brothers who are reunited when they save the day from evil.

World War II hero Bruno recalls wartime memories

By Andrea Gregory

ALFRED BRUNO, World War II Army Staff Sgt. of the 29th Infantry, and his daughter, Arlene Santangelo, marched in stride from the back of Wingate Nursing Home to a flagpole on the side of the building. "About face!" yelled the 93-year-old sergeant.

The two turned their bodies to face a soaring American flag on Memorial Day morning.

It was probably the most intimate Memorial Day ceremony in Andover. Bruno, a recognized war hero, had been planning the event for three weeks. He said he wanted it to be serious and done in a traditional military style. He has been calling the event his last "hurrah" and said this is the first year he has been unable to attend the Memorial Day ceremonies in Boston.

Wearing a tan uniform with four medals including the Bronze Star pinned to his chest, Bruno and his daughter paid tribute to the fallen soldiers of World War II.

After standing silent at the base of the flagpole, Bruno spoke softly, his head bowed.

"Dear Lord, please find a place in heaven for these comrades who gave their lives so we can be free from terror. They gave their lives so all generations can be free from terror and fear," he said.

Bruno was drafted in 1941. He spent four years serving his country, traveling to places such as France, Belgium, Holland and Germany. He was awarded the Bronze Star for a decision credited with saving the lives of 25 soldiers on Omaha Beach. For Bruno, the memory of wartime is still fresh, and a bit haunting.

"We got to the beach on June 7 (1942). I had about 15 men under my squad. Others were located over the area. As we were going to meet an officer to direct us, two officers were killed from road mines. So, I was a staff sergeant; that left me in charge of the group. I made the decision to find a good spot and stay still. We know the road is mined and we can't cross that," he said.

Bruno called for bombing of the lethal roadway.

As a result, inside room 201 of the Wingate at Andover nursing home hang newspaper clippings calling him a hero. "Sarge's split second decision saved 25 men" reads the headline on one of the yellowing newspaper stories.

Old black-and-white combat photographs are taped up near the articles. "I must be here somewhere on a Jeep or a truck, somewhere," said Bruno a few days before his Memorial Day ceremony. He glanced over the photos and leaned in a little closer.

"You can't imagine the feeling I have in my heart," he said. "There is nothing more miserable than what a combat soldier goes through, never knowing when you are going to get hit. You never know when you are going to get shot.

"The snots in my nose were frozen. I had potato sacks over my boots. You are walking up the hill and you are seeing bodies being picked up. It's not an easy thing. Anybody who has in combat knows what death is."

Bruno's eyes glazed with tears. He breathed in deep and swallowed. He looked over at the awards resting on the windowsill, including his Bronze Star. Monday, the ribbons and medals were pinned to his chest.

"I'm so proud of him," said his daughter.

Mary Beth Anderson

'82 AHS grad was active in community

Mary Beth (Plaehn) Anderson, 39, of Scituate and formerly of Andover, died of cancer on Saturday, May 29 at her home.

Mary Beth Anderson

Family members said for the past nine years "she lived fully and vibrantly, defined not by her cancer but by a capacity for love and an unflinching faith."

She graduated from Andover High School in 1982. At Salve Regina College, she earned a degree in sociology in 1986 and enjoyed success as a two-sport athlete. In her senior year she was named to the Division 3 All New England Softball Team.

Her chemotherapy treatments twice forced her to halt deliveries.

A mother of three boys, she coached soccer, supported her local PTA and was an active fundraiser for various charities. She competed in the Avon 3-Day Breast Cancer Walk in 2001, raising $15,000. She also walked the 65 miles in spite of painful neuropathy in both feet.

Mrs. Anderson was a strong supporter of the Foyer of Charity in Scituate, a spiritual retreat. She served in various capacities there.

Can-do attitude promotes recycling

Students initiate recycling program at Andover High

By Ben Hellman

ANDOVER HIGH SCHOOL JUNIOR ALI NILL noticed one day that there were no recycling bins in the AHS cafeteria. Now, with the help of two friends, she sorts through barrels of recyclable material and lugs large garbage bags full of empty cans and bottles to a recycling center every two weeks.

Nill was put on the AHS Leadership Council and assigned by Principal Peter Anderson in December to find some way to improve the cafeteria. Nill asked if she could start a recycling program and Anderson said yes. She enlisted the help of AHS students Debbie Cheng and Maureen Gaj, both sophomores, to help her.

Nill, Cheng and Gaj empty the recycling barrels every two weeks. Sometimes the girls find old food and other garbage in the barrels. The girls wear rubber gloves and work in the cafeteria wet room, a room with a hose and a drain in the floor. This week, there was a terrible smell when they emptied the barrels. There are times the job can be gross, but the work is not a big deal, said Nill. "It's kind of a tedious job," she said.

Recycling is not a big money-maker, but Nill donates what she collects from deposits to pay for AHS clubs. Nill estimates that since December, she has amassed between $50 and $60. But there's a principle involved for her. "I think recycling is important. Money is an added benefit," she said.

Nill would like to start an official club next year. Then the school could have a rotation of students who sort the cans and who bring them to be redeemed. "I feel like a lot of other students really care about recycling," said Nill.

Recycling

Candy Dann, Andover Recycling Committee chairwoman, said she is aware of Nill's efforts.

Dann said all Andover schools recycle some percentage of their paper waste. But janitors have not become more involved in recycling because they would need to empty liquids from bottles and cans and pick through the trash.

Dann said all the schools should start thinking about providing end-of-year recycling for all the extra paper that will be discarded after the final school bell rings. The Andover Department of Public Works could stop by all the schools on a weekly basis if necessary, said Dann. Concerned teachers, students or others can contact the DPW for extra pickups or contact the Recycling Committee to learn more, she said.

The recycling committee's Web site is: www.town.andover.ma.us/recycle.

Andover High School junior Ali Nill (above, and at far left), along with Maureen Gaj and Debbie Cheng, began a recycling program in the school cafeteria.

geography and wanted to do the best that he could.

He happily answered the questions during his national bee debut and smiled broadly each time his name was called, much to the delight of his parents.

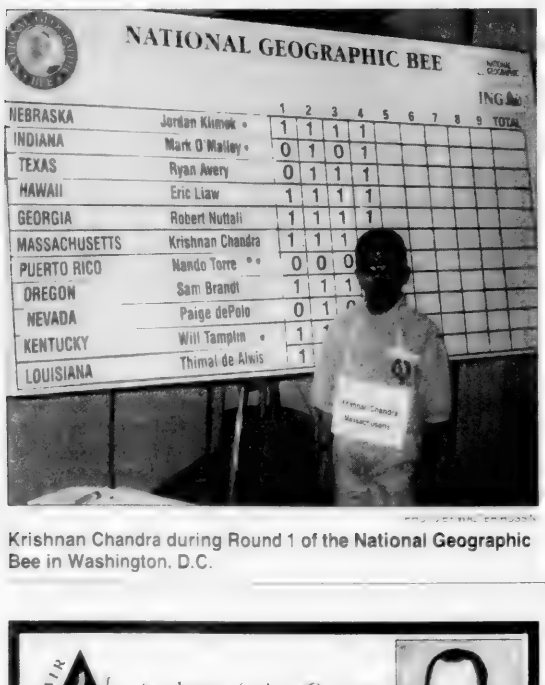

"There was so much pressure... for some of the families, it's not just a geography bee, it's a way of life," Prema Chandra said of the bee, which was hosted by Alex Trebek of the TV show Jeopardy. One boy was so upset with his wrong answer that he had to be escorted out of the room, she said, while others were used to being in the spotlight. Many contestants also take part in the Scripps Howard National Spelling Bee.

"But, we were more worried than Krishnan. We were just so happy that he kept smiling," said Prema Chandra, his mother.

"Sixteenth place is a great finish and we are just so proud of him," added Venkat Chandra.

The list of top-10 bee finishers includes nine eighth-graders and a 12-year-old from Hawaii who was in the bee last year.

As for a bee-peat, Krishnan – who turns 12 in November – said it's too soon to tell if he'll compete next year. He's more interested in his Game Cube and tossing the football with his friends right now. He said he has some catching up to do.

BOOK REVIEW

The Wonderful Story of Henry Sugar & Six More

BY ROALD DAHL

Reviewed by John Chartier and James Caron

This week, 14-year-old Andover residents John and James review a book of seven stories that present life's lessons from a favorite author, in his same admired writing style.

When readers think about Roald Dahl's books, their minds automatically wander to the world of Willy Wonka's Chocolate Factory, James' Giant Peach, and to the swamp home of the Enormous Crocodile. In The Wonderful Story of Henry Sugar & Six More, we get to see a new side of Dahl, with the same wonderful writing style.

At first glance, The Wonderful Story of Henry Sugar & Six More is a collection of seven seemingly unrelated stories. When one takes a closer look, however, it is clear that each of these stories illustrates an important life lesson. Our favorite of these seven magical tales is the title story.

The Wonderful Story of Henry Sugar is about an eccentric millionaire, Henry Sugar, who stumbles upon a secret at his friend's home that will forever change his life. By reading a book about Imharat Kahn, a man who is able to see the world without eyes, Henry learns to harness his inner powers to swindle many casinos out of large sums of money. But, in a heartwarming ending, he finally learns that some things are much more important than money, and there are many people who are much less fortunate than he.

This is only one of the seven magical tales in this heartwarming anthology. After reading this book, our views of Roald Dahl have changed forever. Through this book, Dahl makes himself appear more like everyone else. It almost seems as if Dahl himself is giving the reader some of his own advice.

We give The Wonderful Story of Henry Sugar & Six More a nine out of 10. In each story, the reader will be able to connect with the characters and identify with the situations.

Dahl has once again upheld his title as the foremost children's author. We believe no collection of his books could ever be complete without the seamlessly crafted The Wonderful Story of Henry Sugar & Six More.

So head out to pick up a copy of The Wonderful Story of Henry Sugar & Six More today. Oh, and be sure to keep an eye out for any eccentric millionaires throwing money out the window!

Your Dental Health
by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D., F.A.G.D.
A BLEEDING SHAME
If the average person were bleeding from any part of the body, he or she would seek immediate attention. However, many people experience bleeding gums and don't give it a second thought. The fact is that your gums are not supposed to bleed any more than your nose is. Bleeding gums are a warning sign of periodontal (gum) disease, which, if it remains untreated and undetected, can lead to tooth and bone loss. One of the surest ways to prevent gum disease is to floss regularly, at least once a day. As you have probably heard before, flossing gets to the plaque buildup between teeth that brushing cannot reach. If flossing seems inconvenient, think about eating without your teeth!
We believe a good flossing technique is one of the best ways to safeguard your dental health. Although brushing is certainly key to optimum oral hygiene, brushing alone only cleans three sides of a tooth. It takes a piece of dental floss to reach the other two. Flossing packs two powerful punches against tooth decay – it removes debris from between the teeth and from under the gumline and it helps prevent plaque build-up. If you've been experiencing bleeding gums, now is a good time to call 978-475-2431, 296 Lowell Street (Rt 133), for an appointment. We have easy access off Rt. 93.
P.S. To be thorough, tooth brushing should last at least three minutes.
